Reds Propose Tough Terms

Communists Ready to Negotiate Final Truce Details; South Koreans Protest

SEOUL (AP) — The Communists said today they are ready to negotiate the final details of a Korean armistice, even though South Korea objects violently.

There was still no indication that stubborn President Syngman Rhee would accept a truce which fails to guarantee unification of his war-battered nation.

The Communist reply to Gen. Mark Clark's June 29 proposal to sign an armistice now was delivered by liaison officers in a five-minute meeting at Panmunjom.

The letter laid down what appeared to be some tough conditions for Communist acceptance of a truce negotiated in two years of hard bargaining. But observers said the Reds might waive some of these when the truce talks resume.

The Reds said the United Nations command must:

1. "Take effective steps" to assure South Korean compliance with armistice terms;

2. Recover 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners set free on orders of President Rhee last month;

3. "Shoulder the absolute responsibility" for seeing that none of the 8,000 anti-Red prisoners remaining in Allied stockades escape.

The Communist letter said "our side agrees that the delegations of both sides meet at an appointed time to discuss the question of implementation of the armistice agreement and the various preparations prior to the signing of the armistice agreement.

"The date for the meeting will be discussed and decided by the senior delegates of both sides through liaison officers."

Informed sources said the next move probably will be an Allied request for a liaison session to fix the date for a meeting of the full truce delegations.

TALKS STALLED

Thousands of South Koreans paraded through the streets of Seoul crying for the UN command to fight on until Korea is unified.

President Eisenhower's truce envoy, assistant secretary of state Walter Robertson, met with Rhee again Wednesday in an effort to win his support of a truce. The talks are reported to be stalled on Rhee's insistence that the United States agree to resume the war unless a post-armistice political conference progresses toward unification of Korea within 90 days.

Eisenhower Assures Rhee Of Intentions

Seeks Peaceful Reunification

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today assured Korean President Syngman Rhee that the United States is looking forward to the peaceful reunification of Korea and intends to work for it after an armistice.

The president at his weekly news conference, however, did not endorse Rhee's demands that the war be resumed if a political conference fails to unify Korea after three months of deliberation.

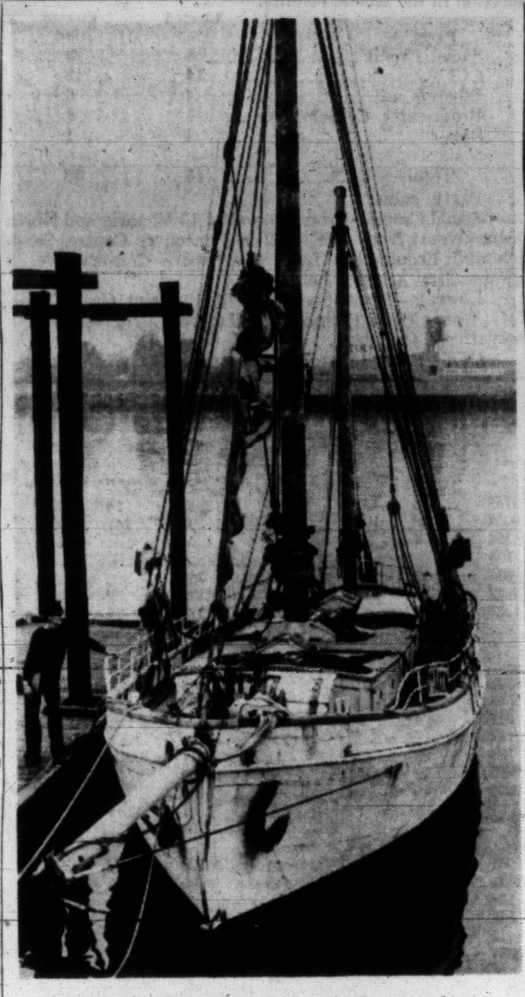
The president said the question of trying to reunify Korea by warfare is something that would have to be weighed against the future of the United Nations. He said the hopes of all are high for the success of the world organization.

The president said he hoped the efforts to negotiate with Rhee would lead to a settlement in Korea. But the president said he could not deny that there are troubles. He said no one can tell exactly how the situation will come out.

At the outset of the news conference, Mr. Eisenhower noted that the Communists had accepted the United Nation's suggestion that peace talks be resumed despite the Allies' troubles with Rhee. He said he wanted to make it clear, in that connection, that everybody in the United States understands the aspirations of Rhee and have very warm spots in their hearts for what South Korea has done to help fight the war.

He said we must never lose sight of the fact that the Korean incident is an ideological struggle as well as one of arms.

We look forward to the peaceful reunification of Korea and intend to work for it, the president declared.



Sailed Here From Norway

NO JOKE, POLICE SAY

Three-Toed Monster Haunts Ontario Town

NEW HAMBURG, Ont. (CP). — A slimy three-toed "monster" with a hideous tail crawls the streets of this southwestern Ontario town by night and hides by day, Police Chief George Thomas said today. The 2,200 residents are in a dither.

The chief says he won't rest until he kills "this beast". He already has taken a couple of shots at it. Deep marks in the ground, made by the three toes on two legs, have been seen clearly in the morning. The heavy tail has also left an imprint.

"This is no joke," the chief said.

"In fact it will be a tragedy if anyone is attacked by it."

He said he caught a glimpse of the creature Saturday night as it was half-running, half-crawling back to its lair somewhere near the Nith River.

"I fired at it with my revolver, but it was too dark to tell whether I nicked it or not. I'll be waiting every night from now on."

Chief Thomas figures the animal stands about 3 feet and weighs about 50 pounds.

Dr. F. A. Urquhart, director of zoology at Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum, said the creature might be either an American bittern or a great blue heron, both large water birds.

He said both birds have three toes and are common in Canada. However, if it turned out to be any strange form of reptile, he said the museum would "be delighted to have it."

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

Tito Urges West Be Fair to Russia

Yugoslav Premier Sees New Red Policies 'Real'

By HELEN FISHER
(Copyright 1953 by United Press)

BRDO, Yugoslavia (UP) — Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito said today he believes Russia is in the midst of a real change of policy, and he urged western powers to seize this opportunity to reach a "realistic" international settlement.

He believed the Russian changes were the result of past mistakes and weaknesses.

Tito warned that President Syngman Rhee of South Korea "is going too far" in opposing an armistice. "If they (the West) let him go on, it could have serious consequences," Tito said.

Tito cautioned that the West should not demand too much of a change in Russia or expect the Kremlin to give up all its basic aims lest it reverse its recent policy and try to emerge as "the champion of oppressed nations."

Marshal Tito talked for 70 minutes with this correspondent at his summer chateau in the mountains, discussing with great frankness Yugoslavia's relationships with the Soviet Union and the United States, and analyzing the changes taking place behind the Iron Curtain.

He said that it was the remarkable policy shift in Hungary which finally convinced him that the Soviet bloc is in the throes of a real change.

Kremlin Changes Not Yet Ended

(Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's No. 1 Communist, was removed from his post of premier last Saturday. His successor, Imre Nagy, astonished the Hungarian parliament and people by denouncing Rakosi's policies and promising sweeping reforms including a swing toward private enterprise and greater rewards for agriculture.)

"I do not believe the Soviet Union will ever renounce its basic aims," Tito said.

"But I do believe that right now they are in a phase of great accumulation of pressures resulting from the weaknesses and mistakes of the past, and that the leaders of the Soviet Union must make great changes. These changes are real and not just tactical manoeuvering, and they are not yet ended.

"But further development depends not only on the Soviet Union but also on what is done by the western countries.

"I would advise them to take advantage of this phase to settle important international problems such as Germany and Austria.

"But they should not ask any 100 per cent change within the Soviet Union or ask the Russians to give up all their basic aims.

"Some people in the west have an unrealistic idea that now is the time to achieve something extraordinary in this line. But this would cause such a reaction that the situation would become worse than ever. It would encourage the Soviet Union to reverse itself and again try to emerge as the champion of oppressed nations."

Tito received this correspondent in the spacious salon of his simple, thick-walled 18th century chateau where he usually spends the summer months. With a polka dot tie he looked tanned and rested, much younger than his 61 years.

Interpreter Aids Interview

The interview was carried on mostly through an interpreter.

The president made these points:

1—The drastic government changes in East Germany and Hungary "give us great satisfaction" because they prove Yugoslavia was right in breaking with the Soviet Union five years ago. Similar changes are to be expected in other satellites.

2—It was Hungary that convinced him the Russians were serious. "Throwing out a whole set of the Soviet Union's most loyal agents and replacing them by a new set who are not known at all, changing the entire state and economic administration of a country—this is a decision not easy to reach which could only be motivated by very basic considerations. And it will certainly go further."

3—Yugoslavia will welcome better relations with Russia but will never return to her old dependent relationship. "We want to be independent of all countries in every respect."

4. There are deep ideological differences between Yugoslavia and Russia which probably will never be overcome. But normal relations are possible. "We have ideological differences with America too, but nevertheless we have not only normal but friendly relations with America."

5. Yugoslavia will take no further action on Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Roman Catholic prelate now confined to his home village of Krasic. "Stepinac wants to be a martyr," Tito said. "He refused medical examination and refused to go to a seaside resort for his health. If he died there, they would say it was our fault just the same. Stepinac is only a pawn in the Vatican's world chess game and will be only a pawn as long as he lives.

In Korea Syngman Rhee "is going too far and if they (the West) let him go on, it could have serious consequences. The whole political capital which the United Nations gained by achieving the successive phases of an armistice in Korea might be lost. I see that Rhee, at the urging of Chiang Kai-shek, wants to release the Chinese prisoners, too. If the American government does not prevent this, it may have far-reaching consequences. The whole world would be thrown into turmoil and it would cast a dark shadow on American policy in Korea."

'QUIET' RETURN SOUGHT OF CORONATION STOOL

LONDON (BUP)—Scotland Yard, disclosing the disappearance of a crimson stool used in the Coronation ceremony at Westminster Abbey, appealed for its "quiet" return today to avoid a clamor like that touched off by the removal of the Stone of Scone on Christmas Day, 1950.

The stool, on which the Duke of Edinburgh knelt to pay homage to Queen Elizabeth, was missed one hour after the Coronation ceremony was concluded. The yard kept it quiet until now.

ELECTION AFTERMATH

By-Elections For Ministers

Bennett Pledges New Seats For Rolston, Gunderson

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today two by-elections will be held after the fall session of the B.C. Legislature to seat his defeated cabinet ministers.

Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson were defeated in the provincial election.

The fall session is expected to open about September 15.

"The ministers will be seated in the House in the regular constitutional way," he said.

Two of the 28 elected Social Crediters will have to resign to open seats for the cabinet ministers.

Mr. Bennett, however, did not say in what seats he planned by-elections.

He explained the situation is "similar to last fall" when he named Robert Bonner attorney-general and Mr. Gunderson finance minister, then seated them with by-elections when two private members resigned. Both had been appointed to cabinet posts after the 1952 election.

ST. LAURENT WILL SPEAK AT ROYAL

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent makes his second visit to Victoria in less than a year, on Friday.

Details of his visit haven't been released yet, but the Prime Minister's main appearance will be at the Royal Theatre Friday night at 8.15 when he will make his major address.

The Liberal leader is now in Winnipeg, heading west, on his election tour. His last appearance here was September 5, 1952.

He will be accompanied to Victoria by John Pickersgill, newly appointed secretary of state, and Ralph Campney, associate defense minister.

Cabinet Shuffle Looms

BY GORDON FORBES
Times Legislative Reporter

Possibility of a shuffle in Premier W. A. C. Bennett's cabinet loomed today as an aftermath of the defeat of Education Minister Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

Mrs. Rolston was defeated by Liberal Leader Arthur Laing in Vancouver-Point Grey Monday afternoon as counting was completed in the province's second election in a year, 29 days after the June 9 election day.

Here are the final standings: Social Credit 28; CCF 14; Liberal 4; Progressive Conservative 1, and Labor 1.

See Page 2 for election summary and Point Grey progress count.

Mr. Laing defeated Mrs. Rolston on the fifth count 22,730 to 21,354. The Liberal leader trailed through the preceding counts but was elected on the distribution of the second choices of CCF voters.

Premier Bennett has asked both defeated ministers to carry on in his cabinet. Mrs. Rolston has accepted but Mr. Gunderson is undecided.

If either minister was unsuccessful in a by-election, the premier would be faced with the necessity of re-aligning his cabinet and bringing in new blood.

Defeat of Mr. Gunderson, or a decision by him to quit politics, would likely see Premier Bennett carry on as finance minister and eventually appoint an outsider to the post.

None of the Socred MLA's-elect have the necessary qualifications which the premier wants for a man to fill the finance minister's job, although the name of Alex Mathews, Vancouver Centre successful candidate, has been mentioned as a possible successor.

But defeat of Mrs. Rolston might see one of the existing teachers in the cabinet, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black or Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers, shifted to the post.

This would necessitate further changes in the cabinet, and appointment of another minister—possibly among the Vancouver Island members-elect. The Island has had no cabinet minister.

One Socred MLA-elect who could fill Mrs. Rolston's post is Ray Williston, Prince George, a former school inspector.

Education Minister Rolston charged today that "false propaganda" regarding the Rolston Formula on school financing had contributed to her defeat, but her views were immediately rejected by Mr. Laing.

Mr. Laing contered that if the election was fought over the formula, Point Grey candidate George Miller would never have been defeated since he was the strongest critic of the plan.

U.S. Troops Survive Buckets of Grenades

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American infantrymen stormed back to the crest of Porkchop Hill today in a heroic drive to regain ground lost under withering Communist artillery fire.

Troops of the U.S. Seventh Division had surrendered the vital outposts to the Communists after Red artillery hit the crest with 20 rounds of artillery per second for hours at a time.

Chinese troops took command of the hill by throwing "buckets of grenades" at the defending Americans.

After a day of see-saw fighting, exhausted Americans reported at 5 p.m. (4 a.m., EDT they had regained the crest and eastern slopes.

Latest reports said the Americans were fighting to root out Reds who had dug in on the western approaches to Porkchop.

"We are expanding our hold on the hill," a frontline officer said. "We have 20 per cent more territory than we did this morning."

He said the situation was "very encouraging."

United Press correspondent Leroy Hansen reported from the front that an American negro soldier's eyes had been blown out in the furious fighting for Porkchop before the hill was lost.

The attacking Communist force of 1,500 Chinese had battled the Americans for 36 hours before finally pushing them back to the southeastern slopes of the vital outpost on the western front.

BLACK WATCH LEAVE KOREA

IN KOREA (Reuters)—Wailing bagpipes today skirled a lament for Scots who have died in Korea as kilted pipers of the 1st battalion of the Black Watch played their farewell to the Commonwealth division and Korea.

This famous battalion of the "ladies from hell" is bound for Kenya to deal with Mau Mau uprisings.

At a formal ceremony today the battalion handed over to their successors, the Royal Scots, before entraining for Pusan at the southeast tip of Korea, where they will embark for Kenya.

Texan Leads Canadian Open; Stranahan Hot in U.K. Golf

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., putting like a fiend, shot a sizzling five-under-par 66 today to take the lead in the first round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

With the field then about half finished at that time, Bolt's 66 broke a three-way tie at 67 shared by Wally Ulrich of St. Paul; Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., and Leo Biagetti of Baltimore.

Henry Martell of Edmonton, new Canadian PGA champion, had a first-round score of par 71, going over on the first nine. The gallery swarming over from the third green just as Henry was driving off the fourth tee appeared to upset him. His ball barely caught the green at the par-three fourth and he three-putted.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, twice winner of the British Amateur golf title, fired a brilliant two-under-par 70 today to clinch the first-round lead in the British Open golf championship.

With almost all of the "name" golfers finished and with more than three-quarters of the field in, Stranahan's 37-33 for the par 72, 7,200-yard championship course appeared good for a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole tournament.

Ben Hogan, U.S. Open titlist who is bidding for his first British Open cron, wound up one over par with 36-37—73.

St. Laurent Hits Out at Communism

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent today opened his western election campaign with an attack on Communism, branding it as a "godless, reactionary and destructive doctrine."

But he warned against raising false hopes of armed support for those behind the Iron Curtain who seek to throw off their chains and become free.

"A policy of liberation that would lead to a general atomic war could be no good to anybody," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the fourth All-Canada Congress of the Ukrainian Canadian Committee.

In Canada as in other countries Communism is "subversive and a threat to security," said Mr. St. Laurent. It had to be "watched and countered."

Mr. St. Laurent's reference to communism appeared to be a reply to criticism by George Drew of government policy. The Progressive Conservative leader has said that if his party is elected, he will make Communist activity in Canada illegal by amendment to the Criminal Code.

Mr. St. Laurent advocated no outright ban but rather a policy of vigilance bolstered by a strong economy.

Prince George Pilot Killed in Crash

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—Pilot Frank Hutton, 26, of Prince George, was killed Tuesday night when his light plane crashed near here.

Two passengers, Clyde Black and Mary Lou Easy were slightly injured.

Oct. 12 B.C. Holiday

Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 12, has been declared a public holiday by the provincial cabinet.

It will be a holiday under the Factories Act.

The order was made after the federal government proclaimed the day a holiday throughout the country.

Forest Closure Ordered

An unexpected storm which interrupted Victoria's hot spell Tuesday night failed to reach Up-Island points, and the B.C. Forest Service has ordered closure of the Sayward Forest in the Campbell River area.

High fire hazard conditions are responsible. However, travel through the forest will be allowed under special permit from local forest officers. Car movement on certain forest access roads will be banned completely.

Sayward Forest lies north of Lower Campbell Lake, includes the watershed of the Salmon River, extends west to Discovery Passage and north to Johnson Strait.

The general fire hazard elsewhere on the island decreased overnight. A four-acre Malahat blaze was brought under control Tuesday, as well as a spot fire in the same vicinity. Small fires at Sooke and Shawnigan Lake district also were extinguished.

Surprised residents of Victoria watched a spectacular display of sheet and forked lightning over the Olympic range Tuesday night, followed by one-fifth inch of rain.

Weatherman Bill Mackie freely admitted the storm caught him "with my guard down."

It sneaked up the coast of Oregon, and broke without warning," he said. "However, I think our warm spell is only temporarily interrupted."

Temperatures were down this morning, registering an official 53 at 9.30 a.m., rising to 63 at 12.30 p.m. and 64 at 1 p.m.

Forecast is for cloudy skies, with the sun breaking through in the afternoon, today and Thursday.

TWO SISTERS DROWNED IN LAKE NEAR BURNABY

BURNABY (BUP)—The RCMP today identified two sisters drowned in a swimming mishap at Brunet Lake as Ethel Joy, 14, and Mabel Lainne Birchmore, 11.

The girls had gone swimming Tuesday evening in water about 10 feet deep near the Brunet River dam. A third sister, Louise, eight, ran to her home when she saw her sisters in trouble and the father recovered the bodies.

Police said there were eight other swimmers in the pool less than 100 feet away who didn't realize the two girls were in trouble.

Mosquito-Ridden Ont. Swamps Hide Child

MINAKI, Ont. (CP)—Search was resumed today for a five-year-old Winnipeg girl, missing since early Sunday in the dense forest, bush and swamp around this Canadian National Railways resort.

Weary searchers dragged themselves out of the bush Tuesday night following the third unsuccessful day in the hunt for brown-eyed Geraldine Huggan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jared Huggan, who was last seen playing near her grandparents' summer cottage six miles west of here.

So far the only clue found were the footprints of a small child in moss atop a high rock ridge on the shore of Fox Lake. The tracks petered out near a swamp.

One of the most-weary searchers is the child's father, who has been carrying on with scarcely a break since the child was reported missing.

Roaming the area alone and with groups of volunteers, Mr. Huggan tramped through the darkened woods until late Sunday night, lantern in hand and calling out to the little girl. He continued through Monday and Tueseday.

$25 FINE ON CHARGE OF WOUNDING

Ernest Olson, 63, was fined $25 in RCMP court at Colwood Tuesday for wounding Willard Sawyer, 21, with a rifle shot last April.

He was found guilty of causing Sawyer grevious bodily harm.

Evidence revealed that a group of Indians, including Sawyer, beat on the door of Olson's home, off Craigflower Road, early one morning.

Accused fired a .22 rifle through the door to fighten them off, and the bullet hit Sawyer on the outside of the left thigh. According to testimony, Olson had been beaten previously by a group of Indians.

Defending counsel was J. Ronald Grant.

Chuckwagon Races Highlight Calgary Stampede Action

CALGARY (CP)—The second series of heats in the Calgary Stampede's chuckwagon races turned out hotter and faster Tuesday night with two outfits tying for first place and setting up a record time.

Carl Barritt of Stettler and Commodore Allen of Vulcan, whose teams raced in the sixth and seventh heats respectively, both clocked one minute, 13 1-10th seconds.

Fifteen crews made the home run with no penalties being registered against them.

Ike Would Bare Atomic Secrets

President Says Allies, U.S. Public Should Have More Details on Weapons

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today that the time has come to give the American people and U.S. allies more information about atomic weapons.

At his news conference the President described as outmoded provisions of the atomic energy law which restrict the information that can be made public.

He said the American people must have more information if they are going to act intelligently. He said he is confident that Americans, as always, will make good decisions.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked if he agreed with Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer—"Mr. Atom" of World War II—and Gordon Dean, recently retired chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, that this government should give Americans and America's allies more information on U.S. atomic weapons. Both men also said the public should be given intelligence estimates of Russia's atomic capabilities.

The President replied that the atomic enery law restricts the amount of information that can be made public. But he added that he thinks the time has arrived when the American people must have more information if they are going to act intelligently.

He said such information also should be given to America's allies in a co-operative spirit.

Mr. Eisenhower did not say whether the administration will sponsor amendments relaxing secrecy provisions of the atomic energy law.

But he said that a summary of a report by a special psychological warfare committee — which will be made public later today—touches on this subject.

And he said he believes the government should be far more frank with the American people about atomic weapons than the present law permits.

WARN RUSSIA

In a farewell news conference June 25, Dean said Russia should be given an "order of magnitude" idea of the size of America's atomic stockpile. By that, Dean said, he meant not the actual number of weapons in the stockpile but, say, the number of cities they could destroy "in a single attack."

Dean said "it would be a great pity" if Russia should start a war because she was not aware of the destruction that could be visited upon her.

At the same time, Dean said, the U.S. public should be made acquainted with Russia's atomic might—what it is now and what it is expected to be a year from now. Such information is needed for intelligent civil defense and other atomic age planning, he said.

Housing Minister Undergoes Surgery

LONDON (AP) — Another cabinet gall bladder went under a surgeon's knife today, bringing to three the total of ailing ministers. Housing Minister Harold Macmillan, 59, was reported in a satisfactory condition after a gall bladder operation.

Foreign Secretary Eden was bedded by the same ailment and now is convalescing after a third operation. Prime Minister Churchill, suffering from fatigue, is taking a month's rest cure at his country home in Kent.

FINAL STANDINGS IN B.C.'s ELECTION

Final standing of parties in the B.C. general election (subject to any changes that may come from judicial recounts) is as follows, with the results of last year's election in the second column:

Liberals—From Social Credit 1 (Point Grey C ballot); from CCF 1 (Prince Rupert); from Progressive Conservative 1 (Lillooet).

CCF—From Liberals 1 (Skeena).

Tory Leader Repeats Promise of Tax Cuts

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—The Progressive Conservative election promise of a $500,000,000 annual cut in federal taxes was reiterated here Tuesday night in two speeches by Hon. George Drew.

"There is no doubt that taxes can be reduced," he said in a 15-minute speech over a Trans-Canada network in the CBC's free-time political series. The theme was repeated in a speech at Ste. Anne's Hall here before 375 persons.

The $500,000,000 saving could be made by ending budget surpluses which had averaged $300,000,000 a year since 1945, he said, and by reducing the present budget by "considerably less than five per cent" to save the balance of $200,000,000.

"We can save at least $200,000,000 and probably a great deal more in defence expenditures without any reduction in our defense effort."

When government members said taxes could not be reduced, they were really saying: "We won't try to do it."

"They admitted they are incapable of tearing down this Frankenstein of waste and extravagance which they have created and which today devours your savings and threatens the value of your money and your future security."

Mr. Drew returns to Ottawa today and will speak there tonight. He will then campaign for two days in Eastern Ontario before heading east for his Maritime tour.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) —Jack Kramer defeated Ken McGregor 6-4, 6-4, and Pancho Segura trimmed Frank Sedgman 6-2, 6-4, in a professional tennis match here Tueseday night.

Immigration Policy Rapped by Coldwell

BIGGAR, Sask. (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the CCF party, has criticized the Liberal government's handling of immigration as haphazard, uncertain and confused.

Speaking Tuesday in his home riding of Biggar, Sask., Mr. Coldwell said his party, if elected, will inaugurate a program of planned immigration which he said is the only solution to this country's immigration problems.

But such a policy is impossible unless it is an integrated part of over-all economic planning to maintain full employment and provide social services, he said.

Speaking from a prepared text before a crowd of 2,300 persons, he repeated his promises of a national health plan and other social services which would be put into effect "whether we are elected to power or not and sooner than a lot of people think."

The CCF, which would draw up a graduated income tax with increased personal exemptions, also would prepare a bill of rights for the people and bring stability to industry, particularly agriculture, the basis of the the Canadian economy.

The CCF would bring stability to agriculture through a system of forward-pricing—the same protection for which a union man negotiates.

Water Conference Advised By Pearkes

Federal and provincial governments should "get together" with the people of Metchosin to consider the water and road problem created by the Rocky Point arsenal construction, says Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC.

Speaking at Metchosin Tuesday night, the Progressive Conservative candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich said roads in the district were not meant to carry the loads now imposed by the arsenal construction.

"It is extremely unlikely that there will be adequate water for both the arsenal and the residents even with the existing government water line to William Head," he said.

U.K. Trade Delegates Gamble on Korea Truce

See UN Lifting Restrictions After Peace Pact Is Signed

By HAROLD GUARD

LONDON (UP)—The unofficial British trade delegation which signed a multi-million-dollar agreement with Communist China is gambling on a Korean truce to lift present United Nations restrictions on trade, sources here said today.

The British council for the promotion of international trade, which sponsored the delegation of British businessmen to Peiping, itself appeared skeptical of any immediate expansion of trade.

Sources connected with the delegation said the British foreign office had "frowned on the mission from the word go."

"But the delegation went to Peiping with their eyes open," the informants said. "They were basing their plans mainly on future trade with the expectation that if a Koren truce is signed some of the present restriction on trade with China will be removed."

The chief concern of the British foreign office, the sources added "seemed to be to avoid upsetting our American friends."

They said the agreement signed in Peiping was scheduled to come into effect Aug. 1.

"If there is a Korean truce by that time surely it would be reasonable for the UN subscribing countries to take trade matters into account," the sources said. "We all realize it would need UN approval before any trade restrictions with China could be removed.

"But this would appear to be expedient as soon as possible after a truce. It would help discourage strife over contracting world markets which is Soviet policy," they said.

Time Not Considered Appropriate

The Board of Trade has repeatedly said nothing would be done to discourage the maximum of trade with Red China consistent with the UN embargo. However, the foreign office has let it be known the time is not considered appropriate for any sort of trade deals with Red China.

An editorial in the Financial Times said it appeared improbable that the transactions, as specified in the agreement, could be conducted within the trade licensing restrictions now enforced by the Board of Trade.

It said most of the goods named in the agreement are regarded as strategic exports and come under the UN embargo.

The Manchester Guardian expressed a similar view and said there was no sign of the government being prepared to permit the export of such materials to Red China.

The proposed British exports to China listed in the Peiping agreement included metals and metal products, machinese, electrical appliances, chemicals, tools and instruments, medical and surgical equipment, communications and transport equipment.

The Communist New China agency's announcement of the agreement said it provided for a total exchange of $84,000,000 in pound sterling "each side." Trade circles interpreted this to mean total transactions would reach $168,000,000.

A member of the British delegation, however, was quoted in Hong Kong as reporting that the arrangements provide for "£15,000,000 in British exports and a similar volume of Chinese exports."

Eisenhower Cuts Off Aid To Iran

Must Settle Oil Dispute, Says Ike

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—President Eisenhower has written Premier Mossadegh that the United States will give no economic aid to Iran until a settlement is reached on the oil question, it was learned today.

Iranian sources said Eisenhower's letter declared the United States was disturbed also over the freedom permitted to the Tudeh Communist party in Iran.

The oil question involves the nationalization by Iran of the $1,500,000,000 holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in 1951. British and Iran have held lengthy negotiations in an attempt to reach a settlement.

TUGBOAT RETURNS HOME FOR TRIAL

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The ocean-going tug Lapointe will return to Vancouver Friday to play a part in the Assize Court murder trial of crewman Harold Ernest Graham, charged with the May 9 slaying of fellow-crewman Silvio Cyril Zenatta.

The 12-man jury hearing the case will view the scene of the struggle which followed a drinking bout in a Washington State port. Mr. Justice Clyne ordered the tug back from its north coast duties at the request of the jury.

Laniel Wins First Test On Tax Reform

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Joseph Laniel today won from the French National Assembly endorsement for a tax and reform program on which he had staked the life of his 10-day-old government. After a 16-hour session the assembly voted 329 to 277 to accept Laniel's finance bill, which provides the government with extra revenue and permits it to undertake reforms in the civil service and nationalized industries.

Laniel had made it clear that he would resign if defeated on any of the bill's key clauses.

The bill puts new taxes on gasoline, alcohol and passports to provide the extra revenue which the Bank of France demanded as a guarantee to the treasury.

It enables the government to borrow another 110,000,000,000 francs ($314,000,000), from the bank, extend previous loans, and increase taxes by 60,000,000,000 francs ($183,000,000).

ONT. POLICE TO TRACK SPEEDERS BY RADAR

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dana Porter said today that Ontario provincial police cars are being equipped with radar to help cut down the number of traffic accidents.

With the device, an officer can park on the side of the road and the speed of every car that passes him is recorded on his radar screen.

Before the equipment is put in use, highways will be marked with signs indicating that radar readings are in operation.

Similar radar equipment is in use in some sections of the United States.

Tory Retires After 8 Years

HALIFAX (CP)—Frank Stanfield, Progressive Conservative member of the House of Commons for the last eight years, Tuesday announced his retirement from politics.

Mr. Stanfield, member for Colchester-Hants, announced his retirement at a nominating convention which chose Fred M. Blois, a former member of the provincial house, as party candidate in the federal election.

U.S. Climbers Reported Well Up 'K-2'

LAHORE, India (UP).—Reports reaching here today said an American expedition was making excellent progress in its assault on Mt. Godwin Austen (K-2), world's second highest mountain.

The messages said the team led by Dr. Charles Houston, of Concord, Mass., and Robert Bates, of Exeter, N.H., had reached the 16,700-foot level of the 28,250-foot unconquered, cloud-wrapped peak.

This indicated Houston's expedition was following a route taken in 1939 by the last previous party, the fifth since 1902, which had set up a base at the level in the vicinity of the Baltoro Glacier.

It also meant that the Americans had crossed several treacherous crevices of the glacier, one of which is 200 feet deep.

Americans in the Houston-Bates party on Mt. Godwin Austen included Arthur H. Gelke, of New York.

U.S. Releases List of 25 Purged Books

Eight Authors On Banned List

WASHINGTON (AP)—A list of 25 book titles removed from U.S. government information libraries overseas because their eight authors are "presumed to be Communists" was made public today.

The writers named were Earl Browder and William Z. Foster, successive leaders of the U.S. Communist party; Ilya Ehrenburg, Soviet propagandist; Trofim Lysenko, Soviet scientist; Maxim Gorki, Russian revolutionary writer; and John Reed, Agnes Smedley and Anna Louise Strong, American writers. Gorki, Reed and Miss Smedley are no longer living.

These were the first names to be given out officially in the controversy over removal of books from the overseas libraries in the wake of a demand by Senator Joseph McCarthy, Rep. Wis., that "30,000 Communist boks" be taken from the shelves.

The state department told a House appropriations subcommittee only 39 copies of the 25 titles were in the libraries, and that these were removed on orders from Washington.

A large number of books have been purged in accordance with a new blacklist, sent to the 189 libraries, which has not been made public. Local librarians removed still larger numbers in what officials have termed overzealous execution of directives from Washington.

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, retiring head of the IIA, said last week all copies of some 300 titles had been removed. Other sources said Tuesday that new directives had cut the blacklist to 50 titles or more.

Distinguished Baptist to Preach Here

Two important occasions will be marked at First Baptist Church Sunday.

At the morning service, the sermon will be delivered by Dr. F. Townley Lord, London, Eng., president of the Baptist World Alliance.

The evening service will be taken by Rev. G. R. Easter, who returns later this week after a two-month visit overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Easter attended the Coronation and were guests at the Queen's garden party given in Holyrood Castle, Edinburgh.

While in England, Mr. Easter pursued a course of study through Regent's Park Baptist College, Oxford, and visited many historic sites, taking many colored pictures, which they intend to show to audiences here.

While in Scotland, Mr. Easter preached in Coates Memorial Baptist Church, in Paisley, which is held by Baptists in the same regard as Westminster Abbey is by Anglicans.

Mr. and Mrs. Easter and Dr. Lord are now in Vancouver attending the Baptist Union of Western Canada convention.

Dr. Lord is scheduled to address a city-wide Baptist meeting at First Baptist Church, Wednesday, July 15, at 8. He will discuss, among other things, a recent trip to Europe during which he visited the Russian sector of Berlin and Communist Yugoslavia.

There are as many as 750,000 tiny air cells in an ordinary bottle cork.

Queen Mother Unveils Bust Of Fairbridge

UMTALI, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters) — Queen Mother Elizabeth today unveiled a life-size bronze statue as a memorial to Kingsley Fairbridge, South African who founded farm schools throughout the Commonwealth for British children.

Fairbridge was born at Grahamstown, South Africa, in 1885. He came to Umtali in the early 1890s and lived in Southern Rhodesia until he went to Oxford in 1908 as one of the earliest Rhodes scholars. He died in 1924.

The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret came in the royal train through miles of rolling forest-covered mountains to this picturesque valley.

The Queen Mother said the statue, recognized Fairbridge's "tremendous vision of encouraging immigration from Great Britain to the dominions and colonies of children who might profit from a new life and the endless opportunities which might there be offered them."

He'll Pay Money Back

RICHMOND, Calif. (UP) — Drug store clerk Ed Millwood reported today a man telephoned and said "I needed some cash so I robbed your safe. Your money is under a car parked in the back of the store. I'll pay the rest back."

Millwood hung up, rushed to the safe and found it empty. Then he ran to the parking lot and found $750 in a paper bag. Only $61 was missing.

Victoria Girl Sees Queen's Fleet, Prepares For Paris Trip

High school graduate Bernice Perfect is still seeing Britain as one of the two Victoria students who were delegated to attend the Coronation. She saw the fleet at Spithead and describes her activities in this, the fifth letter-story of her adventure from June 17 to 25.

We went to Canterbury . . . saw the huge stone chair where the archbishops are enthroned . . . the worn steps where Chaucer's pilgrims walked . . . the East Sussex cathedral and the 400-year-old clock, still going with its original works.

We left for Brighton and Hove . . . an amusement park extended out over the water. It's like a fairyland all lit up at night . . . We went to the Royal Pavilion built by Edward VI. This building with its high domed roofs and scalloped eaves is a mixture of Chinese and Indian architecture.

At Spithead . . . the fleet was illuminated and 12,000 pounds of fireworks were let off . . . the whole bay was an array of color.

We went to see the movie "The Cruel Sea." We couldn't get over the way people smoked all the way through the film.

SEES ATOMIC PLANT

Going to Winchester, we passed Holloway's electrical plant, the largest power plant run by atomic energy . . . we saw the Flowerdown airbase, which keeps in touch with ships the world over . . . went to Broadlands, the Mountbatten"s estate, where the Queen and Duke spent their honeymoon . . . walked through Stonehenge, the 3,000-year-old Druid shrine near the Salisbury Plains.

We walked through the city of Winchester and saw the Norman ruins and part of the old Roman wall which had just recently been discovered. We went to 14th century Winchester College and they showed us the wooden plates they used to eat from years ago—when they had finished their first course they would turn it over and use the other side for desert.

We went to King Alfred's Training College for an informal concert and dance. Gee it was fun! Those Englishmen sure are good dancers. We had to wear our uniforms, though. They explained that the boys were in the middle of their exams and our "Paris creations" might be too distracting.

CANADIAN SERVICE

We joined with the Canadian Club of Bristol and the Canadian Veterans' association in the service at St. Thomas the Martyr's to commemorate Canada's 86th year as a dominion . . . we sang "Oh Canada."

We left Bristol for Bath. After visiting Bath Abbey we went to see the pump room and the Roman bath. The floor of the great bath is covered with the original Roman lead. We also saw the stacks of tiles around which the air circulated in the heating room.

This had been the hottest day (June 25) of our trip. We went on a conducted tour of the places of historical and architectural interest. At 5.47 we left Bath and went by train to London where we spent the night before leaving for Paris.

How to Destroy Our Money

MR. SOLON LOW, LEADER OF the Social Credit party, says the tax bill of Canada can easily be cut by half a billion dollars a year, but not through the "orthodox" methods proposed by Mr. Drew. To call Mr. Drew's methods orthodox is a curious exercise in semantics since Mr. Drew is proposing gigantic increases in expenditure. But if Mr. Drew is merely stretching the laws of arithmetic out of joint, Mr. Low proposes to inaugurate an entirely new system of soft, inflationary money.

* * *

In his considered statement to Maclean's Magazine of April 15, 1945, Mr. Low lays down the fallacy that the present economic system never provides the people with enough money to purchase the existing supply of goods. As was pointed out here before, the economic system for many years has been creating more money than goods to satisfy it, with a resulting inflation. Nevertheless, Mr. Low proposes to create still more money out of thin air.

He says he will distribute this additional purchasing power (an interesting term for a debased currency) in three ways.

First, a Social Credit government in Ottawa would pay a "national dividend," a free pension, "to every citizen as a right to supplement earned incomes and sufficient in amount to ensure basic economic security."

This is a national version of Mr. Aberhart's promise to pay every person in Alberta $25 a month. In 1945 Mr. Low believed that the current wealth of Canada would make it possible to pay everybody "at least $25 a month and probably more." Since the nation's wealth is much larger now than in 1945, under a government which Mr. Low is never tired of attacking, it may be assumed that the national dividend would greatly exceed $25 a month.

But assuming that the plan starts with this modest amount, the cost to the national treasury, for 14,000,000 Canadians, would be $350 millions a month, or $4.2 billions a year.

* * *

That is roughly the total of the present national budget, which Mr. Low would double. However, under Social Credit the doubled cost would not involve any extra taxes. The new money would be created by a stroke of a pen at the Bank of Canada.

As every economist has been telling us, the present expenditures of government are one of the main causes of inflation. If those expenditures are to be doubled, without corresponding taxation, if more money at the rate of over four billions a year is going to be pumped into the stream of purchasing power we shall set off an inflationary explosion beside which the inflation of recent years would be a minor incident. Mr. Low's funny money on such a scale would instantly debase the Canadian dollar and soon destroy the value of all Canadian savings in bonds, life insurance and other fixed assets.

The Social Credit plan for gutting the value of our money is based on the original fallacy that insufficient money is in circulation in relation to the supply of goods.

Now if Social Credit were honest in its approach to this matter it would agree that the money supply at present is at least equal to the supply of goods and that no more money can safely be created.

This is precisely the policy of the present government, which has always sought to equate the money and the goods and very largely has succeeded.

* * *

But if Social Credit once admitted that there is enough money in circulation all the magic of its program would be lost. It must promise something that no other party can possibly produce. It must promise something for nothing. It must promise national dividends for everybody with no extra taxes, even though the dollars thus shoveled out would soon be worth little to anybody.

All this, however, is only one-third of the Social Credit Plan.

As laid down by Mr. Low in Maclean's and again in recent speeches, Social Credit will drastically reduce federal taxes. It will put more money in circulation, draw off less by taxes and thus make absolutely sure of a ruinous inflation.

* * *

The third item in the Social Credit program is still more fascinating. It will pay gigantic subsidies to retail merchants on condition that they sell their goods "at a discount and, during the initial stage, operate at an agreed ratio of profit to their turnover."

As will be shown here in another article, Mr. Low thus undertakes state control over all prices and profits and hence, inevitably, over the whole economy. The "free enterprise" system which he is advocating turns out, on examination, to contain all the regulation and regimentation of socialism plus a destruction of the value of money which no sane socialist would consider for a moment. And finally, as also will be shown here the Social Credit revolution involves, by Low's own statement, the destruction of the parliamentary system as we know it and, in his own words, "the end of party politics and, possibly, of general elections."

Forest Fires—the Build-Up Is on

UP TO NOON YESTERDAY, only one small fire, easily controlled, had occurred in Vancouver Island forests this year.

That record could change overnight.

With a resumption of the sustained heat of the last few days, the forest fire build-up period would continue. The grass that had been green to the end of June and was just coloring at the beginning of this month, could become highly inflammable.

With roadside brush maturing the same way, nature is laying tinder for the first careless cigarette thrown lighted from a passing car, for the first improperly tended campfire, for the first picnic blaze inadequately extinguished.

The warnings are clear. The cost of carelessness is generally understood.

Last year the forest service reported 33.8 per cent of the province's forest fires due to human heedlessness. That percentage could be exceeded this year, or it could be drastically reduced by commonsense and ordinary care. The challenge to show those characteristics is before every British Columbian for the rest of the summer.

Low Men on the Totem Pole

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

I CONTINUE TO GET ACCOUNTS OF the Coronation from English papers and letters . . . as no doubt hundreds of you have been doing. I recently had a letter from a friend who was bidden to the Abbey for the ceremony. Many of the things, while from a different point of view, will be familiar to you already, so I'll not repeat what she told me about them. You'll even have heard, here and there, about the six charwomen, clad in white overalls, who appeared after the procession of peers, etc., was over, and swept the carpet before the Queen came. Though you may not have heard that "just a gentle hoot of laughter went up".

Brock

BUT I'm quite sure you'll not have heard anything like this: "I was ushered to my seat by a Gold Stick who in this case belonged to the Diplomatic Corps and wore beautiful tight white breeches and full black coat with much gold and silver lace on it. It was quite incredible how two of these men, each with a plan of the seating for our section of 250 people, found it all so puzzling. They had to consult the plan afresh for each person, and sometimes turn it the other way up, and then murmur 'This is a very difficult number..' And, to me, 'You've no idea how difficult it is to be a cinema attendant.' All the while, a few steps further down, was an Indian (Gold Stick) who knew exactly where all his seats were without looking at his chart at all. He could hardly contain himself, and I don't wonder, it was so childish."

FULL BUT EMPTY

BOTH IN THIS LETTER AND IN AN article by Iain Hamilton in The Spectator, I was surprised by one detail. We'd all heard, and seen in the pictures, how jam-cram full of people London was. Mobs everywhere, making movement impossible. But what I (for one) didn't hear was how empty much of London was. Though it is natural enough, really . . . if everyone rushes to the Abbey or the parade route or the Palace, then obviously it is going to leave huge sections of London deserted.

My friend drove up from her home near Weybridge in Surrey and didn't see a single car on the road until she got to Chelsea, and even then only a few. It was the fastest trip into Town she'd ever made. For one thing, cars with an Abbey sticker were specially routed by the police after reaching London. But for another thing, everyone was somewhere else.

Iain Hamilton found that his thoughts of the approaching ritual were (for a moment) completely banished by "the cold, dank, deserted desolation of the peripheral streets". Dear God, the very houses seem asleep, and all that mighty heart is lying still!

HORSEMANSHIP

WE, WHO HAD TO GIVE OUR Mounties some hurried riding lessons, and to borrow horses for them, shouldn't smile too broadly at the following story from (I think) London's Daily Telegraph. But it is pleasant, all the same. I haven't the text by me, but it went very like this: A columnist observed that various Admirals and Air Marshals didn't look any too impressive on their horses in the big parade. Their faces and bearing were quite strained. Whereupon an R.A.F. officer wrote to the paper, objecting to such a libel. He said that under the circumstances, the horsemanship was all right. Considering how little time they'd had for training them, the horses managed their riders quite well.

EDITORIAL DUTIES

IN STEPHEN KING-HALL'S ALARMing but vital book on The Communist Conspiracy . . . more of this book later, but in the meantime you really should order a copy from Constable & Co. at 15 shillings . . . in K-H's book, he draws our attention to the childish shallowness and innocence and gullibility of the so-called broad mind. As recently as last August a popular British paper printed an article on life in Russia. Since it could readily be proved the picture was absolutely false, K-H and others objected. To which the Editor replied: "We had our reserves about this, but much too much publicity has been given to the other side" . . . that is, the facts about life under Communism.

K-H SAYS: "IN OTHER WORDS, THIS editor appeared to believe that if he published a column of truth on a subject, he was under a kind of moral obligation to publish a column of lies on the same subject."

This sort of broad-mindedness is commonest among university students, usually taking a B.A. in nothing very much, and they often outgrow it . . . although usually at 40, when it used to be 30. But we've all seen it in bad newspapers, and elsewhere. Not long ago a highly respected Vancouver businessman and ex-statesman was complaining that he isn't provided with nearly enough news about the truth and justice behind Communism in Southeast Asia.

"After all, you know, there's a lot to be said for their side." He seemed to mean that he can't get a fair picture unless he is supplied with plenty of distortions to balance the truth. An objective report is so one-sided!

As Our Readers See It

SOME THOUGHTS

For a poor confused mind here are some thoughts for tonight.

Man cannot live by bread alone.

God is easy to discover in at least a confused and primitive sort of way through every striving and aspiration of our will and heart. For the great difference between an animal and a man is that an animal can have its desires satisfied but man cannot.

All that any animal wants is to have its immediate needs granted; this is never the case with man. Man is animated by an urge, an unquenchable desire to enlarge his vision and to know the ultimate meaning of things. If he were only an animal, he would never use symbols, for what are these but attempts to transcend the visible?

No, he is a "metaphysical animal," a being ever longing for answers to the last question. The natural tendency of the intellect toward truth and of the will toward love would alone signify that there is in man a natural desire for God.

There is not a single striving or pursuit or yearning of the human heart, even in the midst of the most sensual pleasures, that is not a dim grasping after the infinite. As the stomach yearns for food and eye for light and the ear for harmony, so the soul craves God.

H-M-M-M-M?

If the Premier of British Columbia can call himself "The Prime Minister," can the Lieutenant-Governor of B.C. call himself "The Governor-General"?

"INQUIRER."

DEFEATING SOCREDS—"THE UNFORGIVABLE SIN"

Oh, Mr. Editor, your paper has, during the last few weeks, been called some rather rude names, however, far be it from me to do that, as having been a subscriber to the Times for a number of years, it would only be a reflection on myself, but to find a section of your editorial page, in Saturday's issue, devoted to a criticism of Premier Bennett's personal luggage, is, to say the least, astounding, and a quibble over the use of one word—meaning "first"—does not warrant an editorial. There are those who would describe this as "tripe," on second thoughts, you may agree, it is a very important matter.

You object to the phrase—Prime Minister. Of course under the BNA there is one prime (or first) minister in Canada, but whether one uses, prime, primus or premier, all three of them mean the same identical thing, they are all "firsts" and W. A. C. Bennett is the first minister in B.C. I suppose you would be satisfied if, instead of prime minister, the phrase "premier minister" had been used, which is the same thing.

I know you search diligently for some little item, some little mole, which you magnify into a mountain, to pinprick the Socreds, who have thoroughly beaten the Liberals, and on Saturday last you found it in the premier's personal luggage. However, I must remind you, Mr. Editor, if this is a sin, Mr. Bennett is in good company, as the former Liberal premier T. D. Pattullo, used to sign—"T. D. Pattullo, Prime Minister"—and you will find a sample of this on the illuminated address presented to the late King George VI, which is framed, and hangs in the Parliament Buildings, near the approach to the library corridor.

If you wish to be consistent, why does The Times, more often than not, refer to the Parliament Buildings, when under the BNA there is only one Parliament in Canada, at Ottawa, surely you should always say Legislative Buildings, but you don't.

May I suggest that an editorial, setting out the reasons for the annihilation of the atrophied Liberal Party, would be of great interest to all your readers, as I see it, one of the reasons was the fact that though we have three former Liberal premiers—Pattullo, Hart and Johnson—all living in Victoria, not one of these was brave enough to raise a finger or say a word in support of a Liberal candidate in the June 9 election. Another reason—and I heard this on all sides—one understood that the CCF were bitter at just missing being called on to form a government, but the action of the six Liberals in the House, knowing the Socreds had just a minority, and new to the job, never spared them or showed a sense of British fair play. It was this in particular that lost them many votes.

Then again, Mr. Editor, they voted with the Socialists to defeat the Socred government, which is an unforgivable sin.

In B.C. the Liberal Party is dead—dead and buried, and editorials in The Times on Socreds' personal luggage will never bring it to life.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Section 9, sub-section 2 of the Constitution Act states: "The official occupying the position of Premier shall be paid a salary of $9,000 per annum, but shall not receive any further salary as head of any department."

There is no provision for, or mention of, a prime minister in connection with the provincial legislature. Section 23, subsection 1, for instance, which bars government employees from sitting in the legislature, refers to the head of the government as the Premier.

These facts must be well known to so well-versed a constitutional authority as Mr. Bennett, and we feel that he was fair game for a little gibe on his very human preference for a more grandiose title.)

FLORADISE

I have a gripe and, as usual, it concerns the Malahat. From time to time I have noticed garbage has been dumped along the roadside, no doubt by outlanders who have come here to pick up some easy money.

I want to tell these offenders to pack up and scram, because, if I catch them at it, someone is going to get a punch on the nose, even if I get shoved in the pokey for it.

Our own people do not do this sort of thing and I ask our Islanders to please take the number of any car that is seen dumping refuse on our highways and report same to the nearest police office.

I have spent 30 years of my life carrying the tourist and traveller over this beautiful highway and, during this time, I have scattered much broom seed and many packets of flower seeds. The flower seeds will not survive, but the broom has finally caught and the Malahat will have a golden crown for a few short years until the second growth of firs comes along and chokes it out.

As far as the roadside is concerned, the government has already condemned the broom to death on the firing line. One man builds, another destroys, however, I have something else I am giving to the city of Victoria. It is the word "Floradise." I have coined the word myself, so that makes it our own, and I see people all over the continent reading this slogan. "Follow the Birds to Victoria—it's Floradise."

That's it, sir, and thank you.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

Your publication is very boastful of the results of the provincial election in Oak Bay. The person elected had lived and was well known in the municipality, yet he was only second choice.

Social Credit and Mr. Gunderson went into the district as newcomers and received the majority of first-choice ballots, an unparalleled achievement. Why not be fair just for once, Mr. Editor, and give credit where credit is due?

It will be a great pity if the whole of the province is deprived of the services of a man of the outstanding ability and integrity of Mr. Gunderson.

Alberta Saw the Core

Lethbridge (Alberta) Herald

Social Crediters are making a bid to capture the imaginations of the people of Canada during the general election. It's a politico-religious appeal that can easily be misunderstood unless one knows something about the authoritarian ancestry of the Social Credit ideology as it came out of Scotland in the books of Major Douglas.

Social Credit in Alberta bloomed in the mid-thirties along with Hitler in Germany and Mussolini in Italy. It was beamed to the totalitarian dictatorship just as much as nazism in Germany and fascism in Italy.

Social Creditors do not like to have recalled the press gag law passed by the Alberta-dominated legislature in the late thirties, nor the banking and credit laws of about the same period. All these were aimed at totalitarian rule in Alberta, as witness this preamble to the press gag law:

"Whereas it is expedient and in the public interest that the newspapers published in the province should furnish to the people of the province statements made by the authority of the government of the province as to the true and exact objects of the policy of the government and as to the hindrances to or difficulties in achieving such objects, to the end that the people may be informed with respect thereto."

Social Credit in its true concept means complete control by the state—the police state, in other words, Major Douglas' concept whence the Alberta variety of Social Credit stemmed believed in a completely controlled and regulated state in which every individual would be compelled by economic penalties to work where and at the job he is assigned by the state.

It believes in the complete control by the state of every business. It believes in state control of all prices, of all production. It is the implacable foe of a free press. It believes that men and women should know only what the Social Credit government chooses to tell them.

The press gag law was just a sample of what was in store.

Now efforts are to be made to sell to the people of all Canada the hoax which only the courts and the federal authority prevented being foisted on Alberta in the thirties. Canadians are going to be told that Social Crediters stand for true Christian democracy. If the press gag had applied in ancient days the Bible would never have been written nor printed.

It is well to recall the efforts of the Alberta government to fasten the Social Credit brand of Hitlerism on the people of this province at the time when Major Douglas was the chief adviser of the Aberhart administration. It is time we wiped the slate clean of that awful threat. It is time for all Canadians to understand the true implication of Social Credit.

Have British Critics Lost Sense of Humor?

BY PETER MATTHEWS

THE English press is giving Walt Disney's "Peter Pan" a bad time.

Under the heading: "A Children's Classic Vulgarized," the stately Times of London describes the film as "even more dreadful than apprehension had feared."

The Evening Standard critic cries: "Death of a Classic." ". . . As Walt Disney turns his attention to various English children's classics, each in turn bites the dust."

American reviewers, on the other hand, think the picture is wonderful.

Which is correct?

Here the Canadian movie-goer finds himself in the classic Atlantic Triangle position—the neutral referee who can look at both sides of the argument and produce a dispassionate opinion.

And in this instance he must come down unalterably on the side of the Americans.

For some reason or other the British appear unduly testy these days. They can find no good in anything American, whether it be "South Pacific" (they called it "Soporific"); Ben Hogan (they predicted he wouldn't shoot 70 at Carnoustie, which he did in the first round); or Gardnar Mulloy, who throws tennis bats at linesmen.

The other day, when a 19-year-old Canadian girl won the British amateur golf title, they called her a "robot."

Perhaps it can be attributed to a post-Coronation let-down. Nerves, and all that.

Perhaps it is because the British, who excel in many kinds of films, have never produced an outstanding animated color cartoon.

Whatever the explanation, most unbiased observers will agree that "Peter Pan" is a sheer delight from beginning to end.

High on the list of these delights is Captain Hook, who contrives to smoke not one, but two cigars at the same time; who has a solid gold hook for dining-out occasions; and whose efforts to avoid becoming crocodile fodder are a continuous howl.

The crocodile is one of the most acrobatic, personable and comical beasts we have seen in years: relentless in his quest for that unfinished dinner, but confident and patient that his jaws will yet close around the silken pantaloons of the devious Capt. H.

Wendy is just about as we imagined her, after reading Sir James Barrie's story. She speaks a flawless English—which must have been embarrassing to those London critics.

But what pleases above all is the color and invention and movement of the film—the Disney genius to make this great fairy tale come alive. There is a memorable closing scene in which the pirate ship turns to gold, and sails serenely across the moon. Watching it, Mr. Darling delivers a closing line which leaves many viewers — particularly the older ones—close to tears.

The man reviewing "Peter Pan" for the London Evening Standard said that he "could not imagine" that Disney's "vulgarity" would be to anyone's taste.

He should have been in the theatre with this tired old party and an estimated 1,132 children—to watch the rapture on their faces as the story unfolded, to hear their peals of laughter at the antics of the crocodile and Nana and the Indians, their whistles and their hand-clapping.

This reviewer knows a six-year-old in Victoria who is convinced, after seeing "Peter Pan," that she can fly—and has a body covered with bruises, to prove it.

Surely this is the great test of "Peter Pan." Was it a good picture? Ask the kids!

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Anybody's Deep-Freeze

"SO REFRESHING," they say when they talk about a plunge in Foul Bay on a sizzling summer day. "So refreshing. So invigorating."

Then they go on to describe the peculiarly attractive features of salt-water swimming.

Stott

"There's something different about it. It's live. Not like dead lake water. The salt is sharp on your lips. It seems to do something for your skin."

After that they talk learnedly about the waters of the Strait. "Warmed by the Japanese Current, you know," they say. "Oh, yes. The current sweeps right across the Pacific, swings in the Strait out by Flattery and makes a lot of difference—all the difference in the world."

Man and boy for 40 years, I've been paddling or plunging in Foul Bay. What they say may not be pure malarky, but I'll reserve comment. That's loyalty.

"Refreshing and invigorating" aren't quite the right adjectives. "Numbing" is the word. A man dives into Foul Bay and comes out thinking he's wearing a suit of ice cubes. It's so cold he can feel the hard, square edges of them.

Of course he feels better after he's had his plunge. Just getting out of that water is a treat. But I like it. I've always liked it, though it gets colder every year.

Actually the quick dive in and out of the bay is a parallel performance to that of the little moron who beat himself over the head with a baseball bat. It felt so good when he stopped.

WANDERING JAPANESE

The Japanese Current story, from local experience, is one of those engaging fables adults tell to amuse children. There is a Japanese Current and it has a long range effect on Victoria's climate. Of that I'm convinced. But the warm water doesn't stream into Foul Bay to make bathing more pleasant. If it ever did, I'd guess it was diverted long before Pearl Harbor.

I subscribe to the theory that Foul Bay water comes special delivery from Alaska, frosted.

But there's one thing you have to say for it. It's consistent. From the coldest day in winter to the hottest afternoon in summer, it doesn't vary more than about four degrees. And the reason the thermometers don't register it is in the lower thirties is due entirely to their craven fear of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

The people around the bay will admit it's cool. But they point to the kids on rafts who paddle around all day on their logs, legs hanging into the water as stabilizers. The youngsters, they say, can stand it. Therefore it mustn't be too cold.

On that they're only half right. A smart kid keeps his feet out. Those who don't automatically suffer a temporary paralysis from the knees down. If you watch them after they've taken a long raft trip, you'll notice there's no feeling in their lower digits. If they can balance at all, they walk away as if their legs ended in stumps. If they can't balance, they scuttle ashore on all fours.

LIKE A MASTODON

Still, I like it and they like it. I used to like it when we gathered at High Rock in the old days and dived into the deep water there. If you went down far enough and opened your eyes, you had a fair idea of how the mastodons felt when the ice-age caught them.

Actually it's too cold to learn to swim at Foul Bay. You can learn at the Y or Crystal Garden pool and you ought to be pretty fast in the water before you try the outdoor stuff around the coast. Then you can make like the hardy type. With a little discipline you can stop your teeth from chattering, and if you don't stay in too long, you only go mildly blue.

Once you've mastered the techinque you can leap in, bounce out and say to anybody who's near: "You ought to try it. Refreshing no end and invigorating." Maybe somebody'll believe you.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

The Bushmen and the Visitors

THE year was 1770, not so very long before the establishment of the American independence that has just been celebrated. But even the wisest elders of the tribe that was enjoying a kangaroo barbecue on the wooded shores of Botany Bay would not have grasped the meaning of the date, if they had ever heard it mentioned.

Joseph

The Australian bushmen had not merely been cut off from the other races of men since paleolithic times, so that the Christian era was unknown to them. They were also simple, early Stone Age people, who kept no account of time.

Then, rounding a headland into Botany Bay, where the lazy swell glistened in the afternoon sun, swam the ship. To the tribe, to be sure, this tall apparition with the canvas bellying under the steady breeze and the cutwater feathering with foam, was not a ship at all. It was a new, and fearful magic, threatening who knew what dark, dangers to the bushman way of life.

Two or three of the younger warriors, youthfully skeptical of the tribal magic, dared to suggest that the apparition in the bay was merely a giant canoe. Let the tribe's fighting men gather in ambush by the beach, they said; and if the people of the giant canoe attempted a landing, let the landing be opposed.

But the elders would have nothing to do with such immoral council. Magic was magic, they said. Only magic could defeat magic, they warned. And this new magic, they quite logically argued, called for the highest form of counter measure.

Only the driving out of scapegoats could rid the tribe of magically subversive influences. Only the death of scapegoats could give the tribe the supernatural power to overcome its enemies.

The usual council of three retired to to the deeper bush to weave spells that would reveal who the scapegoats ought to be. On the council's return to the smoky caves where all the tribe now crouched in terrified anticipation, the scapegoats were called forth.

The spells seemed to have followed the line of tribal politics—those chosen were one of the young warrior-skeptics who had been making eyes at the chief's pretty wife; Old Pegleg, who could not hunt and was a burden; and Strong-Arm, who was challenging the chief's authority.

But this unusual political astuteness of the spells was always expected. The bull-roarers sounded their terrible note. The scapegoats were seized and bound about the upper body. The whole tribe joined in driving them into the bush with thorn-whipe. When they fell and lay bleeding, they were quickly stoned to death.

And so the tribe returned to the caves, feeling a bit self-righteous and altogether confident that when dawn came, Botany Bay would once again be empty.

Unfortunately, when dawn came, the ship was still there. Boats were lowered and oars splashed loudly in the silence. The crews, rushing ashore through the surf, shouted in triumph. Some members of the distracted tribe sought to oppose them; but the invaders had magic noise-makers whose bang could kill a man at 50 paces.

So the tribe fled, and after a little Captain Cook sailed away again, noting that this was a fertile and great land. Such was the beginning of the end of the bushman way of life.

Like the bushmen, people in America are not used to foreign entanglement. And like the bushmen, a good many Americans now believe that the driving out of scapegoats is the best way to escape from the grave world-predicament in which history has entangled them. Like the bushmen, they hunt their own; and they forget the enemy.

Stewart

But they are not as the bushmen, in that people in America have nothing to fear but their own weakness and self-delusion. Let us gird ourselves to drive the dangers back, and they will be as nothing. Let us be wise, high-hearted and of good courage, and the leadership of the world will fall to us. [illegible] we may hope for, if we do not make the bushmen's choice; and this is the moral of the tale.

Britain Readies New Comet

HATFIELD, Eng. (Reuters) — Britain's latest challenger for the world's airline business, the Comet II, will soon be rolling off the production lines here.

The new jetliner is faster than her 490-mile-an-hour predecessor, Comet I, now in regular service on international air routes. She is also slightly bigger and can travel farther without refuelling.

First of a fleet ordered by British Overseas Airways Corporation, the aircraft is expected to fly in August. Six more are in an advanced stage of construction at the De Havilland plant here. Production lines have also been laid down at Belfast, Northern Ireland, and Chester, Eng.

Extensive trials have been carried out on a protoype of the Comet II, which is powered by four Rolls-Royce Avon turbines. A British Canberra bomber powered by two similar engines recently crossed the Atlantic in three hours 25 minutes.

Taking shape alongside the Comet II is the prototype of a still faster and much bigger transport, the Comet III, which has won Britain her first U.S. order for jet airliners.

Three of these 58-to-86-seat aircraft have been commissioned by Pan-American Airways, which has an option for more.

Britain has a monopoly so far as maker of jet transport types in regular service on international routes. Apart from about 50 Comets either built or under construction, there are orders for 80 propeller-jet-Vickers-Viscounts, 47-seat planes which fly at over 300 miles an hour.

ISLAND DIGEST

GALIANO — Victoria Pile Driving Co. Ltd. will begin work this week on a new government wharf at the south end of Galiano Island that will permit Ss. Princess Elaine to include Galiano in her Gulf Islands ports of call.

★ ★ ★

LADYSMITH—Alternate sites for a breakwater here to protect small boats will be checked following the report from Comox Logging and Railway Co. Ltd. that it had the original site in mind for industrial expansion.

The federal government had allocated $75,000 to start work this year at the first site.

★ ★ ★

DUNCAN — North Cowichan council will ask the provincial government to set aside land on the Cowichan River, owned by Duncan and North Cowichan, as a park—if the two corporations cannot agree on its development.

Councillor C. A. P. Murison of North Cowichan, has stated park development will save the land from industrial expansion, and protect the excellent steelhead fishing in that portion of the river.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — A recount of votes cast in Nanaimo-The Islands riding June 9, requested by Social Credit candidate Earle C. Westwood, will be held in County Court July 15 before Judge Arnold Hanna.

The application charged an improper count by Nicholas Wright, returning officer, and alleged that many objections were disallowed by the returning officer.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO—Jack Cottle, honorary president of the Nanaimo Fish and Game Association, reported to the association that Hungarian partridges he was instrumental in having released here some years ago are establishing themselves well.

He also reported blue and willow grouse were thriving, but that pheasants were poor. Cats gone wild are causing havoc among game chicks, he said.

A 150-year-old treadmill operated crane, believed the only one of its kind in Britain, is preserved at Harwich.

Friend of Thousands Of Victoria Tots Dead

Death came quietly Tuesday to end the long career of Captain Ian St. Clair, who for 35 years was drill instructor at city schools.

Capt. Sinclair was 85. He entered DVA Hospital Friday, last week.

Born in Malta, he was the son of an officer of the 71st Highland Light Infantry. He was schooled at Hamilton, Scotland, before entering University of Edinburgh to study medicine. His desire to be a doctor was thwarted when he contracted typhoid fever. Complications left him deaf.

He immigrated to Canada and homesteaded in Manitoba before coming to Victoria just before 1900.

Fond of children, he built and maintained a swimming tank in the upper harbor and taught thousands of city youngsters to swim.

During the First World War he was drill instructor to recruits.

In 1927, when the Native Sons and Daughters of B.C. put up a medallion to be presented annually to Victoria's best citizen, he was selected as the first recipient.

He lost his sight some years ago but learned to read Braille and was in good health during his retirement. He looked forward to birthdays, for on such occasions many of his former students would visit him. For his last birthday he held an "at home" at his quarters, on Quadra and Cedar Hill Cross Roads, entertaining 60 guests.

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Prominent Bush Pilot Wins Election to Manitoba House

WINNIPEG (CP) — Effective strength of the Liberal-Progressive government of Premier D. L. Campbell of Manitoba was increased by one Tuesday night when a party standard-bearer won a close contest in a deferred election for rural Rupert's Land constituency.

Roy Brown, well-known bush pilot and commercial flier, captured the seat in a three-way battle with an independent Liberal and an independent.

With only three polls to hear from, representing 85 votes, Mr. Brown was leading his nearest opponent, independent Liberal Harry Boulette, by 145 votes. With 21 of 24 polls reported, the figures were: Brown, 1,085; Boulette, 940, and Charles Leo Abbott, independent, 187.

Meanwhile, ballot counting continued in Ste. Rose constituency where another deferred election was held Monday. The election was deferred when Dane manufacturing and transport companies:

Eleven companies have received certificates of registration in the last two weeks.

NATIONAL COUNCIL CWL

EDMONTON (CP).—Mrs. G. Woytkiw, of Edmonton, was elected national president of the Ukrainian Catholic Women's League at the fourth national congress of the Ukrainian Catholic organizations which concluded here during the week-end.

Mrs. Woytkiw succeeds Mrs. M. Dyma, of Winnipeg.

First, second and third vice-presidents, respectively, are Mrs. I. Sudol, of Winnipeg; Mrs. K. Crouse, of Toronto, and Mrs. P. Chepeyha, of Saskatoon.

CAMPERS SAFE

JASPER PARK, Alta. (CP)—Tourists will be able to camp in Jasper's camping grounds this summer after all, and won't have to worry too much about being molested by bears.

Reports had been received in Edmonton that an unusually large number of bears had been roaming around in Alberta's national parks and had forced the closing of camping grounds.

But park officials told travel agents Tueseday that there have never been so few bears as there are this year.

ALBERTA SCOUTS TRAVEL

EDMONTON (CP).—Five Alberta Boy Scout troops, comprised of 33 boys each, will take part in the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Connaught Ranges, near Ottawa, July 18-26.

Heading the Alberta troops will be provincial leader F. S. MacCarthy, Liberal-Progressive member for 27 years, died on the eve of voting, June 8.

With 27 out of 30 polls heard from, Gildas Molgat, Liberal-Progressive candidate, led with 1,238 votes. His opponents are James Fletcher, independent Liberal, with 1,057 votes, and Antoine Pineau, Social Credit, with 788.

NEW COMPANIES

EDMONTON (CP) — Sixty-four new companies have been incorporated in Alberta during the last two weeks, it was announced Tuesday.

At least six of these are involved in oil development. The others are mostly construction, Fry, of Calgary, and executive officer Paul Krueger, of Edmonton.

The Alberta troops will meet in Calgary, July 15, for a pre-camp session, at which they are to practice the burning of charcoal to be used at the jamboree, and erect a 24-foot signaling tower to represent Alberta in provincial displays.

Vivien Leigh Seen Rehearsing Soon

LONDON (Reuters) — Actress Vivien Leigh, convalescing here from a nervous breakdown, is expected to be well enough by Aug. 31 to begin rehearsals of a new play with her husband, Sir Laurence Olivier, it was learned today.

"The Sleeping Prince," by Terence Rattigan, is due to open about the beginning of October. Rehearsals have been postponed several months to allow Miss Leigh time to recuperate.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

One of the fraternity picks up his pencil and microphone in a few days' time and heads where fields look greener.

Victorians will miss Bill Stephenson, sportscaster from radio station CKDA, who has kept the faithful and the faithless informed of the doings of the Tyees for nigh on four years now. And the Cougar fans—they'll dial in vain for the familiar refrain of his melodious voice as the cats seek to claw their way back up the Western Hockey League ladder.

Walker

Yes "Wee Willie" is leaving the city of flowers and the salmon for the home of the Suds—Capilanos, to you, neighbors. He'll be on the opposite side of the fence now.

But it's further than across the straits that Bill is looking through the ether waves. TV looms on the immediate horizon in Bill's plans, video and a wider field in which to develop his talents.

Few sports fans believe it yet, but on numerous occasions in the past Bill's broadcasts were of the reconstructed variety. He was sitting in a city studio while the game was hundreds, even thousands of miles away. It's a tribute to his imaginative faculty that these same fans would often argue the point heatedly.

There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip, and Bill has made 'em on the air too. Nothing like the time, the famous story goes, of the well-known announcer who, when concluding his program and thinking he was off the air, said:

"There! I hope that satisfies the little————"

The biggest blip on Bill's screen came after he left CJOR in Vancouver and was airing general news and sports at Port Alberni. Indiscreetly, naturally, he allowed to slip the following phrase:

"How the hell did that guy get on the air."

Of course there have been some other rather famous moments, one especially, when Bill was left speechless. It occurred during a baseball game here a few years ago. A hit of definitely scratch variety had been duly recorded by the official in charge of such records. In due course, however, the official changed his mind on the play, but neglected to inform Bill.

On Bill went, gaily to the end of the contest, recording the one-hitter. But imagine his surprise the next moment when the information was relayed to him that said pitcher had thrown a no-hitter.

His biggest thrill, he says, was anticipating and finally realizing the trip to the Tyees' spring training drills in California this spring. He won't admit why, but it's a matter of record that Bill arrived with the wind and rain and was in California for fully four days before he ever saw the club in action.

Wryly, perhaps, this year at least, he admitted in the presence of general manager Reg Patterson that it is also a thrill to him when the Tyees win. Patterson's only comment was that he hopes Bill will retain the same frame of mind when he's calling the game in Vancouver in future.

Telling Tales Out of School

But there's one little yarn we'd like to spin on Bill before he leaves with his good wife and two sons. We're sure Bill won't mind.

The haze at the ball park and the smoke in out-of-town arenas seemed to be a little worse than usual a year or so ago and a kindly friend suggested that maybe it wasn't THAT HAZY. Bill took the cue quickly enough and visited a friendly optometrist.

This genial gentleman's parting shot as Bill left, now fully equipped to combat the hazy conditions of the past, was:

"Well, Bill, you'll see your first hockey game tonight."

Yes, baseball, hockey, and sport in general has lost a good and valued friend in Bill Stephenson, and we join with his many friends in wishing him success in his future endeavors.

Sports Fans Mourn Percy Payne's Death

One of the best-known supporters of cricket and soccer in Victoria, Percy Charles Payne, 68, died Tuesday in his home at 244 Richmond Road.

PERCY PAYNE

He helped introduce league cricket here in 1919, a game in which he excelled.

His record achievement, bowling five wickets with five consecutive balls, is still believed to be unsurpassed.

In his 21st year of inter-city cricket, he took nine wickets for 39 runs.

He organized the Five C's Cricket Club with Dean Quainton during the First World War and was team captain for 11 years. He was also instrumental in getting an eight-ball over in Victoria cricket and remained an active player until four years ago, serving for many years as president of the Victoria and District Cricket Association.

Past president of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association, he was also vice-president of the Victoria and District Football Association.

Born in Tunbridge, Wells, Kent, England, he married in 1909 and came to Canada in 1911.

He was a member of many clubs, including: Victoria Elks No. 2, Tillicum Athletic Club and the Progressive Conservative Association.

He became provincial president of the Elks and was a past grand lodge officer, BPOE. He was past president of the Foul Bay Community Association and past president of the Victoria Billiard League.

Mr. Payne is survived by two sons, George and Jack of Victoria; three daughters, Winnifred May at home, Mrs. Ruth Chungranes and Mrs. Joy Satterfield. There are also four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be under auspices of the BPOE. Rites are set for 3 p.m. Friday at Hayward's Funeral Home. Cremation will follow.

TAKE YOUR PICK; THEY'RE BOTH GREAT

Mathews or Mantle?

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Two powerfully-built youngsters who didn't cast their first vote until last November are the most-talked-about young players in baseball today.

One is Mickey Charles Mantle, new pride of New York Yankees, rated by many as a worthy successor to the great Joe DiMaggio. The other is Edwin L. Mathews, Jr., toast of Milwaukee Braves and likely heir to Ralph Kiner's National League home-run crown.

Mantle and Mathews stand out as the two greatest powerhouse kids to arrive in a long time. The surest way to start an argument is to pick one over the other.

In the American League, especially in eastern cities, they'll tell you that Mantle, the heavily-muscled, switch-hitting Oklahoma kid with the speed of a comet, is the greatest young ball player in the country today. Ask any National Leaguer, especially from the Midwest, and he'll tell you why Mathews, the baby-faced Texan with the blacksmith arms, has greater potential than anyone in the game.

Despite recent batting slumps by both, Mantle is hitting .312 to Mathews' .302. The Milwaukee crasher, however, has walloped 25 home runs to 13 for Mantle. Eddie is the only major leaguer to homer in every park in his league this year. Last year Mathews hit 25 homers to 23 for Mantle. Eddie also leads Mickey in runs batted in, 66 to 53. Mickey has scored more runs but Eddie owns a higher slugging percentage. Although Mathews is considered fast for a big man, he is no match for the Mercury-footed Oklahoman.

Mantle is the fastest man in the majors. He has been timed repeatedly going from the plate to first base on a bunt in 3.1 seconds.

During a football scrimmage in 1947, Mantle was kicked in the left ankle. An infection followed and this developed into osteomyelitis, a bone disease. His knee and ankle are the only things that can stand between him and true greatness. Mathews is hale and hearty.

Neither Mantle nor Mathews is a polished ball player. Both are practically helpless against certain types of pitching. Both make mistakes in the field. Despite Mantle's dazzling speed, he is a novice at running the bases. Neither is an adept bunter.

But it must be remembered that both are only 21, possess tremendous natural ability and have time to overcome their faults.

Stranahan In Early Golf Lead

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (CP)—Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, amateur, turned in a brilliant sub-par 37-33—70 to lead the field with more than half the score reported in the first round of the British Open golf championship.

Stranahan caught fire on the incoming nine to lead defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa, Australian Peter Thomson and Dai Rees of Britain, who finished with par-equalling 72s earlier.

Hogan was even with par for the first six holes although he was hit by a rain and hail storm at the sixth hole. He reached the turn in 36.

Ben Hogan today shot a one over par 73 in the British Open Golf Championship on the wind-swept Carnoustie course.

Max Faulkner, British winner of the '51 Open, shot a two-over-par 39-35—74. Flory von Donck of Belgium scored 39-38—77 and Hassan Hassanein of Egypt, 41-37—78.

Scotland's John Panton, who finished in a tie for second in the qualifying play, got off badly and took a five-over-par 41 for the first nine. Panton set a competitive course record for this rugged 7,200-yard layout Monday when he carded a brilliant 69.

Locke went over par on the out nine, but made up that stroke on the home journey. He went one over on the sixth and 12th holes and birdied the fifth and 18th holes.

Elimination Mat Tourney Planned

Wrestling promoter Ken Williamson has announced that there will be no weekly card Thursday night as it would follow too closely after Saturday's big Gorgeous George appearance.

The next card will be held July 16 and will be an elimination tournament, the winner to meet world champion Lou Thesz.

Roberts Tames Esks

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pitcher Bob Roberts, a cast-off acquired from Calgary, handcuffed Edmonton Eskimos with two hits Tuesday night as Vancouver Capilanos squeezed out a 2-1 Western International League win.

Students Nip Gasmen Close on First Place

Students 5, Capital City 2

Chinese Students, still with two games in hand, moved to within four points of first place in the Senior A Men's Softball League Tuesday night at Central Park, defeating Capital City Servicemen 5-2 behind the four-hit pitching of veteran Stan Tenning.

The league now is into its last three weeks of play and every game from here on in will have a definite bearing on the make-up of the playoffs. First and fourth-place clubs meet in one semi-final while the two middle teams clash in the other.

Tuesday the Students got off to a good start as Tenning hurled perfect ball in retiring the first 10 batters.

Bernie Clarkson got the first hit and was the only runner to reach base until the sixth inning.

Students scored first in the bottom of the third when Tenning was safe as Chick Newman failed to hold a throw from Charlie Sansbury.

Don Robinson followed with a walk and Jimmy John beat out a bunt to load the bases, Tenning scoring on an infield out.

Students then broke the game wide open in the fourth when Quinton Mar doubled and Eddie Lou singled, Gasmen's coach Joe Bryant derricked starter Ken Gunter and brought on Ab Wiebe.

THREE-RUN HOMER

Wiebe threw a called ball to George Brown and his next pitch was lined out deep to right centre for a three-run homer.

Tenning had his trouble in the sixth when he walked the first two batters. They were moved along by Bill Reynolds, and Clarkson picked up the second hit of the game for the Gasmen to drive in both runners.

Students added an insurance run in the seventh when Robinson walked, stole second and went to third on catcher Lorne Harper's bad throw. Bung Derr skied out to Clarkson and Robinson scored after the catch.

The first Wednesday night game of the season is scheduled for Central Park tonight when the Ladysmith nine will meet Butler Bros. Aces.

Game time is 7 to allow the up-islanders to reach the city.

Short score follows: R. H. E.
Cap City Gasmen 000 002 000— 2 4 2
Chinese Students 001 300 10x— 5 8 0
Gunter, Wiebe (4) and Harper; Tenning and Chow.

Marie Cooper Barely Misses No-Hit Game

Marie Cooper, of Copley Bros., fashioned the neatest pitching job of the Senior Women's Softball League Tuesday night and, but for one pitch, would have been a candidate for the Hall of Fame.

In pitching Copleys to a 9-1 victory over last-place Pitt & Holt at lower Central Park, Miss Cooper missed a no-hit game by the margin of a one-out double in the sixth inning by her opposite number, Cathy McDonald. The lone hit drove in the only run scored by the losers, the runner gaining first base on an error. Miss Cooper retired the losers in order after that.

Stamps Execute Triple Play; Bill Prior Honored Tonight

Calgary 5, Victoria 4

By BILL WALKER

It's "Bill Prior Night" at the local ball lot tonight, but early patrons shouldn't be at all surprised if the program hawkers in front have a brand new theme.

And it is to be hoped that it doesn't have the same effect on Prior as something had on the Tyees Tuesday night.

"Step right up folks . . . there's a thrill a minute going on inside" could be the new pitch up on Caledonia Avenue. For they tossed away the script Tuesday in the Tyees latest defeat, a 5-4 setback at the hands of the Calgary Stampeders.

Seven straight times the Tyees have gone to the post in the second half of the Western International League race and those seven times they have come out second best. Going back further, back into the first half, the Tyees are now winless in 10 straight games.

But none could be as wild and wooly as Tuesday's presentation.

"We didn't lose this one," Tyee manager Cec Garriott spake in the dressing room. "We beat ourselves."

It could be added that a ladies' night crowd of 2,800 (1,000 paid) was beat, too, in the pantomime that occurred right before their very eyes.

Jim a Victim of Circumstances

First of the night's oddities occurred in the first inning when Jim Clark, who made more mistakes in one game than he usually does in an entire season, elected to pick off a base runner instead of throwing to first while the Stamps leisurely scored the first run.

Ah, but more was to follow.

After the Tyees had taken a 2-1 lead in the third with the aid of singles by Don Pries and Chuck Abernathy, a lead which was to stand up until the ninth, Clark, in rapid succession accomplished the following:

He let a ground ball scoot through his legs in the fourth for his first of two errors (neither one costly); he got picked off second base when the Tyees had a rally threatening in the fifth. It was a peculiar play in which he just sauntered off the bag towards first, of all places, believing, he admitted, that Pries' sacrifice hit was foul, which it wasn't. He hit into a triple play in the seventh, and made another error in the eighth.

The triple play was an odd one in itself. Clark forced Bob Moniz, who had singled, at second, was out at first on the relay from second to short to first, and Cec Garriott, who also had singled, was out at the plate trying to score from second on Clark's ground ball.

Helbig's Home Run Disputed, Too

Then in the eighth, Dwane Helbig hit a disputed home run (his fifth within a week) inside the park. The ball rolled deep into left field and seemed to lodge behind the signboard. However, when fielder Gus Stathos retrieved the ball before the umpire could make a personal examination, the run was allowed to stand and the Stamps, after charging umpires Walsh and Collins en masse played the remainder of the contest under protest.

And now the fabulous ninth with the Tyees leading 3-1, two men out, two Stamps on base, and the fans jamming the exits.

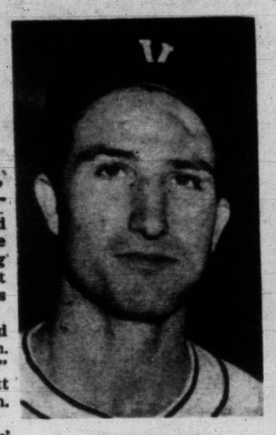
In rapid-fire order came three successive hits, Don Hunter hitting an inside pitch to his off-field for a double; Stathos duplicating the feat to right and Charlie Mead singling home the fourth Calgary run of the inning, and the Stamps led, 5-3.

In the meantime Calgary centre fielder Bob Bonebrake had been removed for a pinch-hitter and Bill Stites, a pitcher by trade, went into right field.

That's when the fun parade started anew. Moniz hit a fly ball to Stites, who obligingly dropped it. Then with two out Pries hit another in Stites' direction. Yep, he dropped this one, too, and the crowd was going like the crazy antics below as Moniz scored and Pries was high-tailing around the bases while Stites looked for the sphere.

But the comics suddenly ended on a brilliant note, not for the Tyees, but Calgary. With Pries seemingly almost certain to score, Stamp manager-catcher Gene Lillard, in one continuous motion, dug a bad throw out of the dirt, blocked the plate on Pries and slapped the ball on the Tyee third baseman to end the game.

"Tonight's show starts at 8 with Prior billed in the starring role. Tuesday's affair probably won't be repeated . . . but then it could . . . step right up folks . . ."



BEN LORINO

Pitching aid appeared on the horizon for Victoria Tyees Tuesday when club officials announced that Ben Lorino, winner of 24 games last season, would return to the club this week-end. Lorino left club following spring training and a tryout in Coast League because of illness of his young daughter. Lorino leaves California by car today.

Indians Upset Pils, Irish Host Salmonacs

PNE Indians 11, Pilseners 6

Harry Preston will be in the nets for New Westminster Salmonacs tonight and that fact in itself may be enough to assure Victoria Shamrocks that they are in for a tense battle as they resume their quest for the Intercity Lacrosse League championship.

Preston, leading goalie in the league by average and one of the most colorful when he is "on", almost beat the Rocks by himself when Salmonacs appeared here last. He stopped 45 shots in a sizzling performance before Shamrocks copped a 9-8 victory in overtime.

Still pulling away from the rest of the league, the Rocks will be gunning for their 16th win in 21 starts tonight and hold a 5-0 record in games with the Salmonacs this season.

PNE Indians, the league's dark horse, vaulted into second place Tuesday night with a surprising 11-6 clobbering of Vancouver Pilseners, ending the hex Pils have held over the Tribe this season. Indians meet Nanaimo Native Sons tonight in Mainland action.

Pils inserted reserve Maurie Woods in goal, resting regular Jack Green, and the move backfired like an old Ford as Indians scored five goals in the first quarter and never looked back.

A combination of their baffling zone defence and superb goal-tending by Stan Joseph kept the potent Pils at bay while Indians were building up their margin. Joseph stopped 34 of the 40 shots flung at him by Pilseners.

Tonight's game will be preceded by a diaper league preliminary between Blue Bombers and Stubbys, at 7 o'clock.

Canadian Open Away On 'Nice Little Course'

TORONTO (CP)—What some of the American pros called a "nice little course" invited an international field of 188 to do their darndest today in the opening round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

The rolling Scarboro course to the northeast of the city is a 6,607-yard layout with nines of 36-35. The last time it was host to the $15,000 Canadian open, in 1947, it took a 268 shellacking from South Africa's Bobby Locke. In that same tournament Ed Porky Oliver set the competitive course record of 63. Oliver was a late scratch from this tournament.

No one predicts that Locke's mark will be bettered. Guesses range all the way from "under 270 will take it" to 274. The high figure is the prediction by Bob Gray, home club pro, who knows his course like a book.

GOLFING JACKPOT

Burkemo Captures PGA Title

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UP)—Blond Walt Burkemo held the jackpot at the end of the golfing rainbow today.

For, after seven strenuous days and 208 hard-fought holes, the 34-year-old Detroiter ruled as the winner of one of the fairway's greatest prizes—the 35th P.G.A. championship.

The chunky two-time Purple Heart winner in the Battle of the Bulge completed the march to the title he nearly won two years ago by polishing off tiny Felice Torza of St. Charles, Ill., 2 and 1, Tuesday over the sun-baked Birmingham Country Club course.

Burkemo was six strokes under par during the murderous week-long stretch, but he was able to go two strokes over par as he disposed of the 130-pound Torza in the finals.

Not that the little guy didn't make Burkemo work for the top prize money of $5,000 he earned. He did indeed.

Button Holders Hold Private Derby Sunday

That merry and select crowd known as the Chinook Club will invade Saanich Inlet Sunday, bidding for a share of $200 in prize booty.

Yes, it's Chinook Derby Day on the Sabbath, an event that brings together the biggest fish catchers in the inlet since the organization of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association 21 years ago.

Chinookers form a small group, sometimes termed as "the champeens club" within the VSIAA.

Every member has caught a fish going 20 pounds or better, and all have bronze, silver and gold buttons from the association to prove it.

This elite group is expected to congregate in the famous salmon fishing grounds in record numbers this year for the annual fishfest.

Chinooker prexy Andy Anderson, the "little man" who is also piloting the ladder derby committee, reports that its newest button-winners who can place their claim cards in his hands or those of secretary (VSIAA) George Douglas by midnight Saturday will be eligible to compete for the prizes in the Sunday derby.

By the way, only "active" members of the Chinook Club can compete; that is: Those who have won buttons and have paid membership fees in the Chinook Club.

Derby will open at 6 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. The weigh-in will be at the Anchorage, Brentwood Bay, shortly after closing time.

These derbyists will be shooting for seven prizes. First is a de luxe mix-master. Second prize is a picnic basket, the third a rod and reel. Fourth prize is a silver tea set, fifth a carving set. Sixth prize is a table lamp. The latter is a "hidden" prize.

Dodgers Set Home Run Mark

Brooklyn Dodgers have unlimbered their home-run artillery. They hit for the circuit six times Tuesday in winning a pair from Pittsburgh, 5-4 and 9-5, and set a National League record of blasting at least one out of the park in 21 consecutive games.

In neither contest did the starting Brooklyn pitcher stay the distance. They usually don't. In 76 outings the Dodger mound staff has turned in only 23 complete games.

The twin triumphs edged the Dodgers 2½ games ahead of the second-place Milwaukee Braves who won a single encounter from Chicago, 4-1.

St. Louis Cardinals outlasted Cincinnati 7-6 and the suddenly-improved New York Giants won twice from Philadelphia, 5-3 and 9-1.

YANKS BEATEN

Philadelphia Athletics broke an eight-game losing streak with a two-run ninth-inning rally that brought a 5-4 decision over New York Yankees.

The Yanks' two nearest pursuers both profited. Second-place Cleveland moved within 5½ games by handing St. Louis Brown their 20th straight home defeat, a major league record. The score was 6-3 with the Browns making five errors in the last two innings. Chicago used a pair of Detroit miscues to score in the ninth and nip the Tigers 3-2.

Skinny Brown, of Boston Red Sox, pitched the day's only shutout with Washington Senators as his four-hit victims, 2-0. Jerry Lane, making his major league debut, allowed just one run in eight innings before being lifted for a pinch hitter.

Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson hit home runs for Brooklyn in the first game at Pittsburgh but Carl Erskine left under fire when Preston Ward made it close in the ninth with a grand-slam home run for the Pirates.

ROE HITS HOMER

In the second game Preacher Roe hit the first home run of his long career in organized baseball. Before it was over Billy Cox hit a pair. Pittsburgh again came up with a ninth-inning rally that produced five runs and disposed of Roe.

Gyros Threaten Leaders

Gyros 8, North Kiwanis 7

Gyros knocked off league-leading North Kiwanis 8-7 Tuesday night and moved themselves within half a game of the Little League lead.

Bud Taylor's line single with one out in the sixth inning, his second hit of the game, sent in the winning run and climaxed a great comeback by Gyros who were behind 7-2 after one inning of play.

The game failed to produce much in the way of sharp fielding as the losers committed 10 boots and Gyros five.

Winning pitcher Mike Heal committed an error in the first inning and wild-pitched three times as losers scored all their runs. However, he bore down and blanked the opposition for the rest of the game on three hits.

NOT MUCH HELP

Russ Ashworth started for North Kiwanis and left under fire in the fifth, errors by his teammates keeping him in constant hot water. Five of the six runs scored off him were unearned as were the tying and winning runs in the last inning.

Linescore follows:

Clubmen Oust Chinese From 'B' Zone Playoffs

Tillicums stretched their first place margin in the Senior B Men's Softball League to a full game Tuesday night by scoring a 10-inning, 8-4 victory over a stubborn Chinese Student squad.

The loss ended Students' chances of qualifying for the zone playoffs which start Monday night, the first four teams engaging in a mid-season playoff series to decide which team will represent the lower Island in zone competition.

The clubs were tied 4-4 at the end of regulation time, but Tillicums chased in four runners in the top of the first extra inning to salt away their 15th victory in 19 games this season.

Don Wilkie opened the inning with a triple and scored the winning run when Bob Abbott drilled a single. Len Anderson's three-run homer capped the big inning and Students were unable to score off Bill Konkin in their half.

Konkin took over from starter John Oliver in the second inning, when Students scored all their runs with the aid of only one hit. Konkin pitched brilliant no-hit relief ball for eight innings.

Line score follows:

Movers Gain Bantam Final

George Wells pitched Victoria Van and Storage into the finals of the Bantam Baseball League Tuesday night at Macdonald Park as his squad clubbed Hagel's Chesterfield, 16-5.

Wells was the big man in the Storage team's best-of-three series victory, winning the first game of the set Sunday, 12-11, in a relief job, and going the distance Tuesday for his second straight win.

The winners now meet Eagles in a best-of-five championship series, the first game scheduled for Thursday night at Macdonald Park at 6.30.

Co-starring with Wells was Dick Ockwell who rapped out four hits, including a triple, and Gary and Clair Lawrence, each of whom contributed a triple.

Eagles entered the final with a clean-cut 9-3 victory over Bernie Nicholl's, sweeping the series in straight games.

Terry Lore pitched the victory for Eagles while Jim Mills pounded a two-run homer.

IT HAD TO BE

City Golfers Win and Lose

Two Victorians advanced in the British Columbia women's golf championships at Vancouver Club Tuesday, but of necessity two Victorians also lost.

Dorothy Herbertson of Colwood defeated her perennial junior rival, Shirley Fry of Gorge Vale, 2 up, while Mrs. H. G. Mearns of Gorge Vale edged Mrs. W. Erickson of Uplands, 1 up. The luck of the draw pitted the four Island golfers together.

The first tournament upset was staged by Mrs. Margaret Hutton-Potts who trimmed Mrs. Gilbert Garnet, 7 and 6. Medalist Mrs. Rena Edwards also advanced with a 7 and 6 victory over Sheilla Whittle.

Other results follow:

Miss Kay Duff-Stuart defeated Miss Yvonne Clarke 4 and 2; Ruth Wilson topped Mrs. Jean Knox 3 and 2; Mrs. J. McCracken upset Mrs. Bob Cleat 1 up; and Mrs. J. F. Campbell nipped Mrs. H. McCranor 3 and 2.

Miss Duff-Stuart meets Ruth Wilson today, while Mrs. Mearns plays Mrs. J. McCracken of Marine Drive. In the other match, Miss Herbertson meets Mrs. Campbell.

Eskimos Draw Well in WIL

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos did as well at the box office as in league standings at the end of the first half of the split Western International Baseball League schedule.

General manager John Ducey said Tuesday that Esks drew 51,784 fans in 35 home games, an average of 1,508 an outing.

The Edmonton average was better by 700 persons a day than the turnout in Calgary to see the Stampeders' home games. In 23 home dates the Stamps drew 18,696 for an average of 813 persons a game.

Yanks Shaken Up

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A bus carrying New York Yankees' baseball team from Connie Mack Stadium to the Pennsylvania station Tuesday night crashed into an underpass.

There were no injuries although the players were reported shaken up.

The crash smashed in the entire front of the bus.

Wellman Homers

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A fourth-inning homer by Bob Wellman proved to be the winning run as Yakima downed Spokane 4-2 in a Western International League game Tuesday night.

National League Stars Favored

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—One of the most powerful National League teams in recent years was favored at 7-5 today to score a fourth straight victory over the American League in the annual All-Star Classic at Cincinnati next Tuesday.

The National League squad, completed Tuesday when manager Charley Dressen added seven pitchers and 10 other players to the eight named by vote of the fans, was favored on the basis of a more explosive attack and better-balanced pitching.

Dressen's attacking forces included 10 players who have hit 10 or more homers this season, and the 18 players, exclusive of pitchers, showed a season's total of 200 round-trippers in games played through Tuesday.

At the same time, Dressen's seven pitchers had a combined record of 64 victories and 33 losses.

While Casey Stengel of the American League was under fire for several of his pitching selections, there was general agreement with those hurlers chosen by Dressen. They were Robin Roberts (13-6) and Curt Simmons (7-5) of the Phillies, Gerry Staley (12-3) and Harvey Haddix (10-3) of the Cardinals, Warren Spahn (10-3) of the Braves, Murry Dickson (7-9) of the Pirates and Hoyt Wilhelm (5-4) of the Giants.

Coast League Attendance Down

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Baseball attendance in the first 14 weeks of the Pacific Coast League season dropped off 228 359 from the corresponding period last year, the league office reported Tuesday. The 1952 total was 1,264,953; for this year, 1,036,594.

TELEVISION
you will be wise to see

Scores of satisfactory Television installations have been made by Butler Brothers all over Greater Victoria, and the reason for the success of these Butler Bros. installations lies in the fact that the trained technicians in charge of Butler Bros. Television Department determine beforehand just the exact nature and height of the aerial required for the best possible reception.

In this way your installation is pre-tested before you make any decision and you are able to avoid the unnecessary installation costs and disappointments of which you have heard some owners complain. Pictured above is the Butler Bros. specially constructed TEST AERIAL which would be brought right to your home to make preliminary tests. And when you select your set here you have a wide range of models to choose from bearing such famous names as VICTOR, WESTINGHOUSE and ADMIRAL, with prices starting as low as $269.50. And, of course, if you already own a Television Set our complete equipment and experience are at your service. You will find helpful service and complete information at our Keating Crossroad Headquarters, shown above, and telephone Keating 90, or at our Quadra and Cloverdale showrooms, phone E 6911. Babies Born With Set of Teeth

(This is one of a series of articles prepared by the B.C. Dental Association as a public service. They will appear daily except Saturday.)

"But mummy! Baby hasn't got any teeth!" Sister Susie, peering into the mouth of the new arrival, takes a dim view of the baby that came without a full set of accessories.

But Susie was wrong, for baby brother had as many as twenty-four teeth when he was born. They're not in sight yet, and they're not fully formed, either, but they're present. Twenty baby, or foundation teeth, and four, at least, of the permanent set are under way, deeply buried in baby's gums. The first teeth of the permanent set begin to develop about two months before birth.

EARLY PREPARATION

So, as soon as it is known that baby is on the way, the expectant mother should see that her own mouth and teeth are in good condition. Anything that might interfere with good chewing, should be corrected, and, of course, abscesses or other forms of infection should be removed. Then she may be sure that the material she swallows has been well prepared—not only for her own nourishment, but also as food, and building materials for the worker cells that build baby's body and teeth.

The doctor will see that the expectant mother is fully informed about a good nourishing diet, or this information may be had from public health nurses. If the advice so obtained is followed closely, the worker cells will be well cared for, and the job of building good teeth will proceed without interruption.

MUST WATCH DIET

Something more than a normal diet is required at this time. The building supplies for the worker cells come from extra quantities of such foods as milk, citrus fruits (lemons, oranges and grapefruit); tomatoes, leafy green and yellow vegetables; whole wheat bread and cereals; liver; cheese and eggs, and particularly some form of fish oils, such as cod liver oil.

A strong, well-built house depends upon able, healthy workmen, using the best materials. Sound, strongly built teeth, resistant against decay, depend upon the care of the expectant and the nursing mother, who sees that the worker cells are well nourished and that the supply of good building material never fails.

Liberals Pick Dr. F. Fairey

Former Deputy Education Minister City Party's Unanimous Selection

Dr. Frank Fairey, who Tuesday night made his first speech from a political platform, was unanimously nominated Victoria Liberal candidate for the August 10 federal election.

His selection came at a nominating convention attended by more than 150 delegates at Liberal Headquarters, Government Street.

Out of 15 suggested candidates, Dr. Fairey, who has just retired as deputy education minister, was the unanimous recommendation of a special five-man "candidate selection committee" headed by Bert Hebden.

His nomination was moved by Oak Bay MLA-elect Reeve P. A. Gibbs, and seconded by F. E. Winslow.

Dr. Fairey, 65, came to Canada in 1907 and held many teaching posts in Victoria and Vancouver before entering the civil service in 1938 as director of technical education. He is a First War veteran and a former commanding officer of the Irish Fusiliers Regiment in Vancouver. Three years ago he was chosen by the federal government and UNESCO to aid in establishment of a new educational system in Burma.

In his acceptance speech, Dr. Fairey said he has never before belonged to any political party "but that doesn't mean I haven't looked over the record of the various parties and found the Liberal record of achievement stands out."

Progressive Liberal-instituted legislation, he said, has touched all sections of the country and all peoples.

"I find no evidence of neglect, and I can say with conviction we are a united country," the candidate stated.

Dr. Fairey termed the opposition parties' "time for a change" slogan the "battle-cry of despair."

"Change to what?" he asked

The Liberal government in Ottawa, he continued, has raised Canada's stature so that Canada is "no longer a youngster in the affairs of the world."

"Why does Canada have such an honored place? Surely it must be because Canada has had good government," Dr. Fairey contended.

'Must Continue to Do Well'

But he stressed that Liberals must not only stand on their record of achievements.

"We must continue to do well," he said. "The Liberal government's program of achievement forms a basis on which we can go forward."

Associate Defense Minister Ralph Campney, in a short address, said B.C. is the only province in Canada which is confused in its political approach.

"All other provinces say the Liberals will sweep the country," he said.

He hoped British Columbians wouldn't let the confused picture interfere with their best interests at Ottawa.

Mr. Campney considered the main issue in the election "performance versus promises."

Opposition parties, he claimed, have failed to offer constructive criticism of the Liberal government, and haven't offered any alternative policies.

He recalled the Conservatives were elected in 1930 on the "time for a change" slogan and Canada found itself in an "unhappy state of affairs".

"After five years, they didn't need the slogan — everybody knew it was time for a change and the Liberals were elected," the associate defense minister cracked.

Tory principles didn't work then, and they won't work now, he said.

The Liberal government has brought Canada to the point where it is the third trading nation in the world and more people are working at higher wages than at any other time in the nation's history.

Old-age pensions, family allowances, the veterans' charter and a national health program are all "products of Liberal thinking," Mr. Campney stated.

He scoffed at Tory Leader George Drew's promise to cut taxes by $500,000,000.

A year ago, he explained, the Liberal government reduced taxes $200,000,000, and this year cut them $300,000,000.

"Maybe that's where Mr. Drew got his figures. Maybe he's got his hindsight and foresight confused.

"The difference is that he promises it, and we've done it."

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate Duncan MacBride, referring to his Conservative opponent, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, said:

"I'll stand on the record of the Liberal party and Gen. Pearkes can stand on whatever he can find to prop himself up."

3 Wounded, 3 Hurt in Korea Fighting

Of Princess Pats Six All Members

OTTAWA (CP) — An army casualty list today included three wounded in action and three men injured in action. The last list was issued July 3.

The six all are members of the 3rd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The army list brought to 1,465 total casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korea, including 285, dead; 1,042 wounded, 25 missing, 95 injured and 18 prisoners.

In addition the navy has reported three dead and three injured in action, and the air force one missing:

To Much Music In World Says Trinity Head

TORONTO (BUP) — The world is suffering from too much music.

Dr. W. Greenhouse Allt, principal of Trinity College of Music in London, Eng., told the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Association Tuesday night nature had reacted against a "constant din" of all forms of music, and people now don't hear music until it stops.

"Music is fed to us at all times," he said. "In England some railway stations play music with a disc jockey, high above the platforms, choosing records to hasten or slow the pace of the travellers.

"Cinemas have increased the volume of music because people do not listen—they are too absorbed in the film.

"The only way to fight this chaotic jigsaw of sound that surrounds us is to conquer the resistance it has built up. But all critical standards depend on mental furniture. The matters of taste of those who 'know what they like' are often matters of ignorance, since matters of taste and judgment depend on knowledge and interest."

Indian Committed On Murder Charge

KENORA, Ont. (CP) Sam Keesick, 36-year-old treaty Indian, has been committed for trial before the Ontario Supreme Court on a charge of murder.

Keesick, who appeared for preliminary hearing in Kenora police court Tuesday, is charged with the murder of another Indian, Alex Fisher, 31, who died following a fight at Delaney Lake June 12.

The fall assizes of the Supreme Court will be held here in October.

THE ACCIDENT SEASON

Adults Can Prevent Mishaps to Kiddies

By PETE LOUDON

Even more than mothers, the nurses of the emergency wards in city hospitals are looking forward to the resumption of school days in September.

Since the kiddies were turned loose two weeks ago they have had hardly a quiet moment.

Barefoot accidents are perhaps most numerous. They are painful and can be dangerous. And the nurses point out that most of them result from some adult's carelessness.

Broken glass on beaches and beach fires that have been doused with sand have each sent youngsters to hospital. The kids didn't necessarily take the bottles to the beach, nor did they light the fire.

On the home scene it wasn't the child's fault that the lye was left where he could reach and taste it. And it wasn't a toddler that left bleach in a pop bottle, but a toddler had to take a swig to see if it was pop.

The youngsters don't need the help of adults in getting scuffed and scarred during the holidays.

Hand injuries sustained in baseball games are treated every day by the nurses.

There is the usual quota of fish hooks in fingers and the painful result of disregard for a blazing sun.

The injuries go on and on, over and over, with different faces appearing every day.

The emergency ward personnel say they meet these youngsters every day in town and will continue to do so until school starts . . . or until someone starts thinking about accident prevention.

Sooke Hills Treasure Hunter Dead

A man who spent more than 40 years searching for treasure he believed buried in the hills of Sooke, died Monday in the Veterans' Hospital.

He was William Theodore Huston Lubbe, 71, a brilliant scholar and a graduate in engineering from Cornell University.

Badly wounded while serving overseas with the Canadian army in 1914-18, Mr. Lubbe was a pensioner.

He was a native Victorian, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lubbe.

Mr. Lubbe, a bachelor, went to live at Leechtown, not only for his health but to search for the buried treasure.

He believed that $40,000 in gold dust taken when a Wells-Fargo express was held up in California had been buried near Leechtown.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9 Thursday morning in Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Interment will be at Colwood. McCall Bros. are in charge.

What is this science of ELECTRONICS all about?

IT'S THE GREATEST SINGLE STEP YET TAKEN into tomorrow's world

Electronics has revolutionized the whole art of communications.

Electronics that first gave us radio—and then television—can now flash words and pictures around the world at the speed of light. One application is the micro-wave that gives us the television hookup and allows hundreds of telephone conversations to be carried simultaneously on one carrier beam. It is also the power that allows plane to talk with plane and prospectors in the inaccessible northland to keep constantly in touch as easily as we speak with a neighbour by telephone.

Electronics has made radar possible—and the pilotless aircraft and the guided missile that seeks out its target and tracks it to inevitable doom. It can guide planes in the sky and ships at sea and bring them safely home. Another application is the electronic brain that can compute, in minutes, mathematical complexities that would take skilled mathematicians days or even years to calculate on paper.

ELECTRONICS SPEEDS THE PACE OF INDUSTRY

Canadian General Electric, as you would expect of Canada's largest electrical company, is vitally involved with the science of electronics. It was the first company to build television sets in Canada. It pioneered in two-way radio communication. It installed the country's first synchrotron—popularly called an atom smasher—at a Canadian university. It was the first company to manufacture electronic tubes in Canada, including sub-miniatures and picture tubes. It is already producing an ever-lengthening list of electronic products for industry.

Today a group within the company is engrossed in studying the limitless possibilities of transistors, the tiny electronic devices that can amplify electric signals a hundred thousand times. Not confined to any one industry, new electronic devices and controls are being used by the mining, pulp and paper, and textile industries, in steel mills and manufacturing plants, and new applications are being found every day.

Step by step for more than sixty years Canadian General Electric has gone forward with Canadian industry and has been proud to grow with Canada . . . today it is still in the vanguard as this country moves smoothly into the electronic age.

SUMMER SCHOOL RECITAL

Victoria Contralto Opens Series With Great Success

BY AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Considerable pride was felt by a number of Victoria music lovers who joined a large audience of student-teachers at Victoria High School, Tuesday morning, to hear contralto Irene Byatt present the first of a series of hour long recitals sponsored by the Summer Schol of Education.

For her second appearance in Victoria, Miss Byatt again chose an outstanding program and revealed the maturing qualities of her exceptional voice and her artistic approach, singing ageless vocal masterpieces in three languages.

Having a voice of great power, she nevertheless controls it well and gave some lovely mezzo-voce passages, maintaining a pure sostenuto, shapeliness of phrase and vitality of diction.

The lower and middle areas of her voice are surpassingly beautiful in timbre, but there is a slight falling off of quality at the top of her range where the tone seems less freely produced. A slight suspicion of sharpening is probably the result of this fault.

ENGLISH SECTION

The breadth, expressive qualities and flexibility of her voice was most ably represented in the Seguidilla area from "Carmen." A group of English songs including Handel's "Where E'er You Walk" and the Britten arrangement of "Sally Gardens" opened the program.

American art songs, concluding with Barber's poignant "Sure on This Shining Night," were her final offering. These were sung with a fine sense of poetry. Heart of the program was given over to the singer's favorite media, the lieder of Schumann and Schubert, for this interpretation of which, without doubt, she has the richest possible potentialities.

Her warm humanity, the range and color of which her voice is capable and her undoubted instinct for poetry creates something moving and vivid when she sings such numbers as "Der Nussbaum" and "Gretchen am Spinnrade."

Abomy, a walled city in West Africa, has an extensive trade in palm oil, gold and ivories.

'Scared Stiff'

Dean Martin and Lizabeth Scott clinch as irrepressible zany, Jerry Lewis shivers, in this hilarious scene from Hal Wallis' brand new comedy sensation, "Scared Stiff, now playing at the Royal Theatre. Released by Paramount, the fun-filled film co-stars South American bombshell Carmen Miranda.

WET RUGS, PAN, SHOES FACING WALL

Wife Who Sleepwalks Nude Getting Advice Aplenty

ENID, Okla (AP) — Advice from sympathetic sleepwalkers all over the U.S. has been pouring in to the Enid police department after a 27-year-old housewife, still snoozing, was found up a tree covered only by an occasional leaf.

She was awakened by her husband and the two fell into a life net spread below by the fire department.

One woman advised the husband to place a wet rug or a pan of cold water near the bed. The theory is his wife, who sleepwalks in the nude when the moon is full, will wake up when her feet touch the water.

And an elderly gentleman says the best way to stop sleep walking is to place the woman's shoes on the floor with the toes facing the wall. Then, he says, when the sleepwalker climbs out of bed and puts on her shoes, she can't go anywhere because she is already standing against the wall.

The distraught husband is searching for a remedy—aware the moon will be full again in about three weeks.

Paris Diamond Cutter Testifies He Cut Big Gem

AIX-EN-PROVENCE, France (AP)—A Paris diamond cutter testified Tuesday that the famous "La Marquise" diamond, stolen from the Begum Aga Khan four years ago, now is an emerald-shaped stone, seven carats smaller.

"La Marquise," a great stone which gave off a pinkish light, was among $850,000 in jewels snatched from the beautiful wife of the fabulously-wealthy Moslem leader in a daylight robbery in 1949. Ten Corsicans and Frenchmen went on trial Monday for the theft. "La Marquise" alone was worth $170,000.

The diamond cutter, 55-year-old Henri Waffelman, a defendant, said he reduced it from its original 22 carats to 15 carats in 12 days of intensive work early in 1950. His testimony lent weight to the case of Lloyds of London, which insured the Begum's jewels and claimed the 15-carat diamond is the transformed Marquise.

Earlier, George Lindsay Watson, a French war hero who says he is the godson of Sir Winston Churchill, vigorously denied he had been the gang's tip-off man.

Shane Alexander Is Leader of the Band

LONDON (CP) — British newspapers say Shane Alexander, 18-year-old son of Field Marshal Earl Alexander, is one of the stars in a jazz band at Harrow School. Inevitably, they call it "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

FOUR-TIME WINNER

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Goose Khal Tuesday became the first four-time winner of the Hollywood Park meeting after scoring a length and a quarter victory in the $10,000 El Monte purse at a mile and a sixteenth.

New Unemployment Coverage Starts Aug. 3

OTTAWA (CP). — Extended unemployment insurance coverage for Canadian workers will go into effect August 3, it is learned.

The enlarged benefits, covering persons who become incapacitated after losing their jobs, were authorized at the last session of Parliament, but proclamation of the measure was delayed while details of the plan were worked out.

Officials said Tuesday unemployment insurance commission offices across the country now have been equipped with instructions for applying the legislation. It will be proclaimed July 18, to go into practical operation August 3.

At present, persons thrown out of work receive insurance benefits only so long as they are available to take on other jobs. If sickness or other disability bars them from calling personally for their insurance cheque, they do not collect.

Under the new amendment to the Unemployment Insurance Act, those becoming incapacitated after unemployment starts will continue to receive benefits for as long as they would be qualified to get them if they were capable of working.

To Name Delegates

Mayor Claude Harrison Tuesday was empowered by the City Council to name delegates to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention at Vancouver, October 28, 29 and 30.

An important export of Greenland is cyrolite, a material used in aluminum production.

City Advised to Get Law on Nursing Home

City council Tuesday was advised to seek enabling legislation from the provincial legislature, in order to turn over $150,000 of lands sale monies, for erection of the proposed Victoria Nursing Home addition.

In a lengthy opinion given City Manager Cecil Wyatt, W. H. M. Haldane, QC of the law firm of Haldane & Campbell, stated the city has no power at present to apply the funds to the nursing home.

The independent legal opinion was obtained on authorization of council. It agreed in the main with advice given a month ago by city solicitor A. J. Patton.

The assent of the electors could be a provision of the enabling legislation, Mr. Haldane said.

He felt that since the provincial government has already promised its $150,000 share toward the $450,000 addition "it would appear that the necessary legislation would be supported in the legislature".

Prior to any vote of the electorate, should that be necessary, Mr. Haldane felt the city might get some assurance from the government "such that tenders could be called and a contract awarded".

"There is no doubt in my mind that the project is in the public interest and will answer a need presently existing and ever increasing," Mr. Haldane wrote.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

"How about," I said to the dog Punch, "a report to the electorate?"

"I am no elector," said Punch, "but it is time I ate."

"Don't be flippant," I admonished.

"Of course not," said Punch. "I'm no seal."

"You're more like a Sealyham," I retorted, "with the emphasis on the ham."

"A slice of ham will do," said Punch, "if you are out of steak."

"I mean ham as in ham actor. And there will be no food until we have a serious discussion about What Happened to the Punch for Premier Party," I said firmly. "Your supporters wish to know what happened to your campaign."

"You sure we couldn't have just a light snack before we discuss this?" asked Punch. "An hors d'oeuvre, mayhap, a small section of cheese, possibly a soupcon of caviar and a light portion of lamb chops en Pappilotte?"

"No," I said.

"No?"

"No!"

"Very well then," said Punch, with simple dignity. "If you insist we will discuss my successful campaign."

"Successful?"

"Of course. And I wish to take this opportunity, in the words of almost any successful candidate, to express my sincere appreciation for the sincere efforts of all the sincere workers who sincerely helped me to sincere victory."

And then Punch added, "I am sincerely sincere about this."

"You forgot the bit about forgetting political differences . . ." I prompted him.

"Oh, yes. And we shall now forget all political differences, and pull together on the oars shoulder to shoulder as we march down the river of life toward the glorious portals of British Columbia's predestined future. Is that okay?"

"That's fine," I said. "Except your campaign wasn't successful."

"What do you mean, wasn't successful?" cried Punch, with feeling and indignation. "Do you not remember, my campaign was the essence of simplicity.

"All I sought to do was become Premier of this province, so I could curl up on the rug and refrain from interfering with the prosperity of B.C.

"In this, I have succeeded," he concluded.

"You have not," I objected. "Haven't you seen the election returns? Didn't you know someone else is the Premier of B.C.?"

"And who, may I ask," said Punch, arching a non-existent eyebrow, "is this interloper?"

"He is not an interloper," I said. "In fact, he doesn't lope at all. He is W. A. C. Bennett."

"Hah," snorted Punch, "That is where you are wrong. The Hon. Mr. Bennett is NOT the Premier of B.C.

"He is THE PRIME MINISTER OF B.C.

"It says so on his brief case, in big gold letters.

"Personally, I am quite happy to serve as just plain premier. But if you were to suggest a prime rib roast, now . . . ."

Courageous Mother of Five Pleads for Assistance

By PETE LOUDON

No money, no food and no home for her five little ones—that is the immediate prospect for a pretty young army wife resting today in a city hospital.

She had her fifth child early this morning. She is 25 years old and recently separated from her husband.

Her future and the future of her five little girls will depend largely on the impression her story makes on the people of Victoria.

It is told partly by the Family and Children's Service of the Community Chest and partly by the courageous mother pleading for her children.

Small, dark, brown-eyed, with an ivory complexion, brown hair, drawn straight back and long on her shoulders, with small chin set not to tremble, she asked Victoria to help.

Married in the East at 16, she had watched her soldier husband work his way downhill. There were gambling, liquor and infidelity. When he brought her to Victoria three months ago, their estrangement was complete.

He placed little family in a hotel, but he didn't pay the rent. He intercepted the army allotment cheques and forged her name, she says. Then he disappeared.

When the young wife went to hospital the hotel authorities moved her family out.

The deserted mother will soon have a divorce and her future will be brighter . . . if she finds a place to rear her family.

Her four older girls are awaiting her in foster homes today. They are two, five, six and seven years old. The hotel people said the youngsters were "sweet and well behaved".

The mother wants nothing more than to get her children together again. Even two rooms would be enough, she says.

But she'd like a place for them to play and she'd like a garden herself. She loves to watch things grow.

She needs cooking facilities and a bath, and the hospital social service workers and the Community Chest will see to furniture. She can pay $40-$50, if need be.

She is an educated girl and hopes to master accountancy in order to help earn her way. She has great hopes for developing her children's education.

But there is no one to help her unless Victoria opens its heart. Her only relative is a young sister in Nova Scotia.

If she gets a new start . . . it has to be because she was brave enough to forget her pride and tell her story, and someone in this city was brave enough to help. Just phone Community Chest.

International Competitors on Pistol Range

Some of the finest pistol marksmen and women of the Pacific northwest opened fire today for a handsome list of prizes in the annual tournament of the Victoria City Police Revolver Club on the ranges back of Thetis Lake. Among those providing the popular two-day tourney with an international flavor in this picture, from left, are Henry Klaucke, San Luis Obispo, Calif.; Taylor G. Burton of Oroville, Calif., and Henry Schulthuis, Seattle, Wash. On the right is Detective-Inspector Charlie Webb of Victoria police, the Island's outstanding marksman. Shoot ends Thursday afternoon. Banquet, dance and prize presentation will take place at the Chez-Marcel, Island Highway, at 7 p.m. Thursday. (Times photo by I. Strickland.)

Coroner's Jury Calls For Safety Measures

Aged Saanich Woman's Death Brings Patricia Bay Highway Recommendation

A coroner's jury today recommended that a cross-walk with a "stop when occupied" sign be placed across Patricia Bay Highway at the point where Mrs. Catherine Underwood, 92, was fatally injured Saturday.

The jury, returning a verdict of accidental death, said the crossing is used often by children.

Mrs. Underwood, of East Saanich Indian Reserve and oldest resident of Saanich, was struck by a car driven by a young air force man, Eldon Powell.

Powell told the coroner's jury that he had rounded a curve and was "almost on top of her before I saw her."

He said Mrs. Underwood was hesitant and went to the right and then to the left, causing him to change his direction twice.

He told the six-man jury he hit a soft gravel shoulder on the right side of the road which caused his car to spin and make a complete turn reversing its direction.

The car struck Mrs. Underwood with its right fender after the spin.

Joyce Percell, of Resthaven Hospital, gave evidence. She was driving in the car with Powell at the time of the accident.

Stanley Bell, 1688 McRae Street, was another eye-witness. He was driving directly behind Powell.

Both Powell and Bell testified that they were travelling at 40 miles per hour.

MAYOR URGES CASH FOR BEACH WORK

Money for the improvement of city beach areas should be included in the estimates for 1954, Mayor Claude Harrison said today.

Nothing could be done this year, he said, as no provision was made in the 1953 budget.

Development of beach areas in the wider south Vancouver Island area, however, is a responsibility of the provincial government, he said.

The mayor referred to the need for clean, sandy beaches.

Lime Bay Demolition Under Way

Demolition of 10 of the 19 shacks clustered at the foot of Catherine Street on the Lime Bay foreshore, began Tuesday afternoon.

The shacks came into prominence and controversy about a year ago after city health officials recommended their removal, for sanitary and health reasons.

City Council approved but agreed to hold up demolition until the tenants found accommodation elsewhere. The shacks were built on provincial government property without authority.

No city taxes were paid.

Of the 11 shacks on provincial property, only one is occupied. There are eight additional shacks on property which has been leased to the E. & N. Railway.

Disposition of these is still under consideration. Five are occupied and three vacant.

The provincial government and the city is sharing the cost of demolition of buildings on provincial lands.

Bulk of Legion Work Held Non-Member Aid

Seventy-five per cent of the service work done by the Canadian Legion is for the benefit of non-members, according to Dr. C. B. Lumsden, Dominion president.

In Victoria today to start a tour of Legion branches in B.C., Dr. Lumsden reported a "steady pressure" to increase membership. "We are not planning a spectacular membership drive," he said, "but we feel the time is ripe to add to our strength through additional members."

He pointed out that only 220,000 of Canada's 1,200,000 ex-servicemen belong to the Legion. Peak membership year was 1947 and the number of legionnaires slowly dropped to a low point of 200,000 in 1951.

"This was the psychological result of the postwar years," said Dr. Lumsden. "We had expected it and planned for it. Now the time is favorable to grow again. We added 20,000 members in 1952, and I expect at least the same gain this year."

In his informal visits with legion branches, the Dominion president will discuss the "persistent problem" of war veteran's allowances. The legion objective is an increase in the basic allowance, and also an increase in the permissable income under the WVA Act.

"We seek a permissable income for married men of $2,000 annually instead of $1,200," he said, "and of $1,200 instead of $720 for single men."

LIKE WATER ON STONE

Asked if he felt progress was being made, he said "it is like water wearing down a stone—it takes a long, long time."

Dr. Lumsden was welcomed at Government House this morning by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace, and will attend an informal dinner this evening at the Pacific Club, where he will meet zone council and executive of district legion branches.

At 8 p.m. he will address an open meeting at Britannia Branch. All ex-servicemen are welcome, whether or not they legion members.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Logan Mayhew donated a power mower to the Community Chest Tuesday after hearing of the grass-cutting problems encountered on the lawn of Spencerhouse on Cook Street.

Ron Hooper, chest secretary, complained last week that the city could not afford to keep up the lawns. The chest could not afford to buy a power mower, so an appeal for one was made. Mr. Mayhew responded.

About 20 Victorians are attending the four-day convention of the Baptist Union of Western Canada opened in Vancouver Tuesday night by Rev. E. J. Bailey of Edmonton.

Altogether more than 800 delegates are attending.

This is a forerunner of the Baptist Federation of Canada conference July 10-14.

Weary, Forsaken Ketch Revived For Long Ocean Voyage to B.C.

She's an aged ship, with dry rot in her bones and a score of patches on her hull, but she brought her 28-year-old master safe and sound to Victoria from Norway.

The 45-foot ketch Maken, owned and captained by G. Michael Fitz-James of Vancouver, made port here Tuesday 10 months after her skipper "rescued" her from a Norwegian beach.

He found her while shopping for an inexpensive craft capable of making the long voyage, and suitable for commercial fishing on arrival in B.C.

Maken was lying on her side, half-submerged; and she had been there for several years. But Fitz-James liked her sturdy, beamy lines, and especially the blocky stern. His faith in her was justified; she proved a wonderful ship in a heavy sea.

Maken was Scottish built 43 years ago for life-saving work in the stormy North Sea. She was built strictly for sail, but now has a one-cylinder semi-Diesel engine which will push her along at a leisurely four knots.

BECALMED WEEKS

The engine was Maken's only failure on the long voyage. It broke down on the Panama-San Francisco leg of the journey and the ship drifted in a flat calm for weeks.

MICHAEL FITZ-JAMES
. . . sailed from Norway.

It took 80 days to make San Francisco.

"It was monotonous and blazing hot," Fitz-James said. "When I had to come on deck to take a moon sight, I had to slosh water on the planking to cool it."

SHIPS NEW HAND

During this stage of the voyage, Fitz-James was accompanied by a young English architect, Ian Nicholson. Nicholson left the ship at San Francisco and Fitz-James was joined by Harry Lieberman.

Fitz-James, who has managed to see most countries in the world during his lifetime, is reluctant to go into detail of the story of his voyage.

"Everything worked out fine" is his only comment. But the ship herself shows the scars of heavy weather, including a section of weather combing smashed by the seas.

The young adventurer will proceed to Vancouver as soon as he has cleared customs. He is a graduate of Magee High School and formerly fished for B.C. Packers. He is the son of H. C. Fitz-James, 2090 Southwest Marine Drive, Vancouver.

Busload of Scouts Trains To Guide U.S. Visitors

A busload of Victoria Boy Scouts enjoyed a scenic tour of their own home town today to brush up on points of local interest.

They want to know what they are talking about when they guide 1,500 visiting American Boy Scouts through the district Friday, Saturday and Monday.

The American Scouts will make a side trip to Victoria while proceeding to a giant jamboree in California from the eastern U.S.A.

They will arrive here in three groups. About 450 are due just before 1 p.m. Friday from Bangboard, Nebraska. They will be welcomed by Mayor C. L. Harrison in front of the Parliament Buildings.

From there they will march to Beacon Hill Park for a box lunch before boarding buses for a sightseeing tour.

Local Scouts will be aboard each bus to answer questions and fill in local history.

Another 325 boys will arrive on Saturday from Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, and on Monday 500 will arrive from New York and New Jersey. A Minneapolis contingent is due to arrive the same day.

The same welcoming routine will be followed in each case. The visitors will depart each day at 5.30 p.m.

On hand with a special left-hand shake will be 25 district Scouts who will leave for the Canadian Jamboree at Ottawa, July 14.

Heat Reduces Island Woods Operations

Many large Vancouver Island logging operations have closed down because of dry weather.

MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. closed down many of its operations earlier in the week.

Although today brought cooler temperatures after overnight rain, those in charge felt it was too soon to send loggers back into the forests, and decided to wait until they see what weather tomorrow brings.

A few small operations, which closed a few days ago, did reopen today, however.

An M & B spokesman said that while actual logging operations were closed, most of the men affected were engaged in road work.

The government forestry service has made no move as yet to close the forests. Companies which have suspended operations temporarily have done so voluntarily.

Scurrah Lauds Garbage Plan

A study of the type of garbage incineration plant in operation in Stockholm and Copenhagen should be made, if Victoria City Counicl ever decides on incineration, Ald. Percy Scurrah said today.

The alderman, who recently returned from Britain, where he atended a sanitary institute conference at Hastings, will make a full report to the city engineer's department sometime this week.

"The plant in Stockholm is extremely efficient and requires little help," Ald. Scurrah said.

He had no estimate of cost for Victoria but felt it would be considerable.

The cheapest and most popular form of disposal in Britain is the "tip and fill" or as it is known here, the "plough and cover system," Ald. Scurrah said.

The difficulty with the method here is that Victoria would have to go into another municipality to get the required land, he added.

$100 Fine Follows Pedestrian Injury

Involved in a collision with an elderly woman pedestrian, who was severely injured, last November, motorist Robert S. Wetherell, 1133 Fort, was fined $100 and his license was suspended by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

ISLAND BOATMAN LOST, COMPANION RESCUED

CAMPBELL RIVER—James Thompson, 25, was drowned at 7.30 p.m. Tuesday when the speedboat in which he was riding from Hardwicke Island to the mainland of Vancouver Island, north of Campbell River, overturned.

According to an unidentified companion, the two men were thrown into the water.

Thompson, married and a father, sank immediately, but the second man was able to cling to the upturned hull.

His predicament was noted by Ss. Princess Norah, which signalled the Bendickson Logging Co., on Hardwicke Island, Thompson's employer. The company sent a boat to the rescue.

City Taxpayers Settle Promptly

A slight increase in taxes payments for the first six months of this year over the same period in 1952 is noted Tuesday by Jack Ozard, assistant city assessor.

Payments total 38.6 per cent of the total tax levy, an increase of .6 per cent over last year.

City coffers have received $1,204,141 out of the estimated total of $3,127,576, Mr. Ozard said. A six-per-cent drop was noted, however, in payment of arrears and delinquent taxes for the first six months of this year, compared with 1952.

About 40 per cent of owing taxes had been paid by June 30 of 1952, compared with 34 per cent this year.

Accused Denies Taking Car Without Consent

Ernest Edward Dunstan, 410 Craigflower, pleaded not guilty when he appeared at a special sitting of Esquimalt police court today, charged with taking a car without the consent of the owner.

Outgrown Cribs Desperate Need In Family Service

Three baby cribs, in a size next to the bassinet variety, are needed by Family and Children's Service, for placement in foster homes.

The service has a number of cribs lent out to the various foster homes under its supervision.

There are, however, so many babies under the F and CS care at present, that all cribs are in use. The need for three cribs is desperate, according to a spokesman.

Anyone wishing to donate such a crib, either new or used, may contact Miss Mildred Wright at Spencerhouse.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—What was the price of coal here in the First Great War period? A.F.

A.—Advertisements in the Daily Times in July, 1917, offered New Wellington coal, washed nut at $7.50 a ton, delivered, and lump coal at $8.50.

Q.—Will you please tell me if provision has been made for absentee voters in the coming Federal election, and if the same regulations cover all ridings? R.G.

A.—There is no absentee vote in a Federal election. Provision has been made for an advance vote on three days immediately before polling day by certain types of people, such as fishermen, whose normal occupation will prevent them attending at the polling booths the day all other Canadians mark their ballots. This is of particular interest to Victoria and Vancouver Island.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

UNDERDOG HAS HIS DAY

Pedigree No Purchase As Pups Vie for Prizes

A large portion of the city's canine population that has been badly snooted in the past by the poodles, Afghans and Borzois, will come into its own Saturday at Central Park.

Dr. Ballard's Animal Food Products Ltd. will sponsor a mut show, with seven competitions open to each and every pooch brought to the park by young owners. Sponsors ask only that all dogs be leashed.

Thoroughbreds are not barred, but will find their illustrious pedigrees of no help to them in the following competitions: best dressed dog, largest and smallest dogs, best trick dog, dogs with the longest and shortest tails, and the fastest eating dog.

In short, Ch. Albrecht von Slurpstein of Muddyfields will compete on even terms with Fido.

First prize will be two silver dollars, and second, one silver dollar in each class. There will be consolation prizes in all classes.

The show will be free, and there will be no entry forms to fill. Only requirement is a dog of any size, shape, color, or parentage—on a leash.

CURVES VANISH WITHOUT CALLOUSES

By F. J. 'TOM' MERRIMAN

Arrogant Scribe Tells of Enforced Slimming

Tom Merriman, Times feature editor, is in Veterans' Hospital following a heart attack. Tom, who entertained Times readers last year with his experience on the "Tubby Hubby" diet, never stops writing. He has contributed his obeservations on hospital stretch. The first article follows:

Dear Boss:

It's nearly a month since I went to work at the office. Maybe I've been missed so I thought I'd better report.

I'm in solitary confinement without hard labor, in the DVA Hospital. Today or tomorrow I'm to be tapped like a maple tree and then I will probably start on the home stretch recovery.

Merriman

As we have no employee's photographic identification system at the office it may be advisable to warn you that you will have to trust to my signature for identification when I return to report for duty again.

This is it. This is serious; no flippant 10-day diet like Halkett clownishly inveighed me into.

I have lost three chins and all . . . repeat all . . . curves amidships. It will be a streamlined Merriman who walks out of the DVA.

Predictions are I shall leave here with the sylphlike figure of your city editor, the poise of Adolph Menjou and the satorial elegance of Col. McGregor McIntosh. And I shall certainly thumb my nose at Halkett.

There will, however, be a slight delay in this spectacular debut. While waiting for new suits to replace those that now fit like balloons, I shall have to borrow junior's.

There's only one favor I ask: that the anticipated ribald remarks from the newstaff on the incongruity of an aging veteran wearing a zoot suit be as restrained as possible in view of the transformation to follow.

Now It's a New Ash Tray That Extinguishes Butts

By PENNY SAVER

What'll it be next? Now they've gone and invented an ash tray that automatically extinguishes your cigarette butts! Wonders never cease, they say . . . and I'm beginning to think the old saying is right. Drop a stub into one of the three grooves, and before you know it . . . it's out! Each ash tray accommodates six stubs . . . two in each groove . . . just be sure the lighted end is inserted in a groove. This way you won't stain your fingers by crushing butts, and there'll be no endless smoldering to make your room stuffy. The heavy, clear glass trays come boxed in sets of four, for $1.50.

Here's something else rather different . . . also in the smoking line. It's a "Silent Butler" (don't ask me how it got the name, 'cause I don't know). It's a covered ash tray for carrying in your purse, girls, and you'll find plenty of use for it, I know. How often have you been out and discovered there are no ash trays available, yet you hate to flick your ashes on the floor? Well, if you own a Silent Butler, you simply use it, slip it back into your purse, and dispose of the ashes later.

These ash trays are dainty and look like small compacts. One style is square and has a pearl encrusted lid . . . $1.75. Here's one for $1 that has a collapsible "lip" to hold the cigarette. It's also square and the lid is enameled in white with a pink rose design. There is one that's round and has a handle. . . . I think it looks just like one of those old-fashioned bed warmers . . . real cute! It also has an orchid design on top and is priced at $1.50. A square one, with handle and mother of pearl lid is $3 . . . without handle, $2.

AS WE LIVE

Girl, 15, Needs Rest Part of the Summer

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

There are relatively few summer jobs for young teen-agers. When one is available, should parents allow their daughters to take it, even if they feel it is too much responsibility? That is the question raised by this mother:

Hurlock

(Q) "My daughter was just 15 years old in May of this year. Many of her classmates are taking summer jobs as baby-sitters and as typists. My daughter types very well and can get a job but it pays little. Now the question has come up of her going away with a family to take care of their two children, ages one and three years. The mother keeps no help and I understand she likes to go to parties and have a gay time. We feel that this is too much responsibility for so young a girl but she wants to take the job because it pays well. What is your thought about the matter?"

(A) It is exactly the same as yours. Your daughter is much too young for a job with so much work and with so much responsibility attached to it. The woman who wants to employ her unquestionably means to throw a lot of responsibility on her shoulders or she would not offer her such good pay.

Taking care of two young children is not only a lot of work but also a lot of responsibility. If the mother were around most of the time, it would not be bad. But as she likes to have a gay time you can be sure that your daughter will be left in charge of the children and the house more often than not.

The employer would doubtless expect your daughter to do much of the housework in addition to taking care of the children. That is entirely too much work for a growing girl during her summer vacation. She should be having relaxation and fun at least part of her vacation time.

Unless you need the money very badly, urge your daughter to take a job with less work even if it brings less pay. Several years from now, when she is more experienced, she can consider a better one.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If You Read This Column, You'll Watch the Scales

Today I would like to give you a few statistics which have resulted from distinguished research.

1. It has been demonstrated that at every age, and in both men and women, blood pressure heightened with an increase in body weight for height.

2. It has been found that significant deviations from normal in electrocardiograms (heart examinations) are relatively most frequent in those who are overweight.

3. It has been found that arteriosclerosis is more prevalent in overweight persons than in those of normal weight.

4. Gallbladder disease is more frequently found in those who are overweight. This is especially true of women.

5. There are few facts about the correlation of cancer and body build but there is some evidence that cancer of the lining of the uterus occurs more frequently in overweight women than in those of lighter build.

6. In crippling arthritis, overweight is believed to be a factor.

7. Rheumatism and gout appear to be more frequent in men who are overweight.

8. The same is true of kidney disfunction.

9. It should also be remembered that overweight often brings about postural defects. These interfere with respiration and circulation and impose strains on the body mechanics.

10. You can get "personalitis," my term for the self-consciousness and complexes which an unattractive personal appearance inflict on one from too many pounds.

After writing this column, I do not think I will eat anything for dinner this evening, but that is not the right idea! I will eat the essential foods and forget most of the high-calorie non-essential ones. What about you?

If you wish to lose from five to 10 pounds in nine days' time send 10 cents for my nine-day reducing diet booklet. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PEACH BUTTERCRUNCH

Peach Cream — Two cups mashed canned peaches, ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup canned peach syrup, ½ cup whipping cream.

Butterscotch Crunch—Three tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons water, 2 cups Corn Flakes.

Heat peaches, sugar and salt. Soften gelatin in peach syrup and add to hot peaches, mixing well. Cool until slightly thickened. Fold in cream whipped until stiff. Pour into greased mold and chill until firm.

Melt butter or margarine in small saucepan. Add sugar mixed with flour and water. Stir until dissolved. Cook over low heat to 236F. (soft ball in cold water). Remove from heat, pour over Corn Flakes which have been spread in greased pan. Mix lightly to coat Corn Flakes and allow to cool. Serve around and over the top of peach mold. Yield six average servings.

To Perform at Christ Church Party

Mia Gabelman, John Webb Repeat Vows in Cathedral

Amid a setting of roses, stocks, snapdragons and daisies in St. Andrew's Cathedral, recently, Mia Wilhelmine Alvine Gabelman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gabelman, RR 3, Victoria, repeated wedding vows with John Merlin Webb, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Webb, 2549 Avebury Street. Father M. O'Connell performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white taffeta with front panel of nylon net. Her taffeta bolero was buttoned to the waist and featured tulip-style sleeves. A full veil, en train, misted from a satin headdress trimmed with seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Matron of honor, Mrs. W. Thoem, and bridesmaids, Misses Shirley McDonald and Ann Gaynes, wore similarly styled gowns in light blue, with net skirts and lace jackets. All carried cascade bouquets of pink carnations and mauve gladioli and wore short blue net veils, held with bandeax of forget-me-nots. Little flower girl, also in blue, was Ellen Thoem. She carried a colonial bouquet and wore a blue floral headdress.

Cousin of the groom, Bill Webb, was best man. Tom Webb and Ray Webb, also cousins of the groom were ushers.

Paul McGarry proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Golden Slipper ballroom. Parents of the newly-married couple assisted in receiving guests.

On honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Webb are in Calgary for the annual Stampede. For her traveling costume, the bride chose a grey wool suit with navy accessories, pink hat and gloves, with corsage of summer flowers.

The couple will live in Victoria.

Last Rites Thursday For First War Veteran

Guild Realizes $700 at Annual Garden Fete

A sum of $700 was realized at annual garden party of St. Mary's Women's Guild, held in the grounds at the Beach Drive home of Major and Mrs. W. Merston, Tuesday afternoon.

Guild president, Mrs. H. S. Beckton, introduced Rev. D. C. O'Connell, who officially opened the fete. He was accompanied by Mrs. O'Connell. Other special guests included Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns and Mrs. Nunns and Major and Mrs. Merston.

Mrs. R. A. Wootton was in charge of tea arrangements assisted by members of the guild. Conveners of stalls were Mrs. W. A. Woodward, linen; Mrs. T. B. Bird, aprons; Mrs. C. W. Duck, candy; Mrs. T. W. Kensington, home cooking; Mrs. F. E. L. Philp, garden produce; Mrs. H. Bowden, superfluities; and Mrs. C. Bunbury, books.

Miss Carol Wootton looked after the recording music and the Men's Club were in charge of the games. Mrs. K. Brown looked after gate receipts.

Delight your bridge club ladies with a picture-pretty salad plate. On each mint-garnished salad plate arrange a drained canned peach half surrounded with whole fresh strawberries. Shape cream cheese into tiny balls and roll in shredded coconut. Put 2 or 3 balls in centre of each peach cup. Glasses of iced tea and dainty walnut bread sandwiches make refreshing accompaniments.

The clothes of the two mothers at a wedding are just as much part of the overall picture as those of the bride, and deserve as much attention. Whether the dresses be long or short, it's most important that they are of the same degree of formality. And it's a nice gesture if the mothers consult together beforehand to make sure that the colors they select blend well with each other.

American Beauty Roses Enhance Bridal Ensemble

Wearing a ballerina-length gown of white nylon and lace, and carrying a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and white sweet peas Marilyn Jackman became the bride recently of Pete B. Hansen, in a ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church. Archdeacon Hardy of Sarnia, Ont., performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Jackman, 285 Pallisier Avenue, Victoria, and her groom, the son of Mrs. A. Hansen, Harbourview Road, Sooke, and the late Mr. Hansen. White asters and blue lupins decorated the church and traditional music was played by church organist Frederic Chubb. Mrs. D. Mogg sang "O Perfect Love" during signing of the register.

Mr. Jackman gave his daughter in marriage. Her bridal gown was fashioned with fitted jacket of lace with high collar and lily point sleeves, the lace skirt over nylon featuring a pleated insert of the nylon net. A satin coronet held her shoulder veil.

Mrs. D. W. Brinkman was her sister's only attendant, wearing a gown of green satin with tiered green nylon overskirt and matching lace bolero jacket. Her coronet was matching in satin and net and she held a colonial bouquet of yellow roses. Bill Hughes, Edmonton, was best man and ushers were Gerhart Hansen, brother of the groom, and Pat Cooke, brother-in-law of the bride.

View Royal Community Hall was decked with flowers for the reception at which a lace-covered table centred with a two-tier wedding cake, white candles and red roses, was a feature. Flight-Lt. A. Harvey proposed the toast to the bride.

Assisting in welcoming guests were Mrs. Jackman in a mauve tailored suit with white and black accessories and yellow rosebud corsage, and Mrs. Hansen, wearing a floral print dress with black accessories and similar corsage.

Following their honeymoon, the young couple will make their future home at Goldstream.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Now's the time for back yard or patio meals. For a simple, wilt-proof salad, centre a mound of shiny ripe olives on a large chop plate. Around them arrange alternate wedges of fresh tomatoes and calavo avocado. Sprinkle with lemon juice, thinly sliced green onion and chopped parsley. If you're an herb-fancier a little sweet basil goes well too.

Ground raisins give cake a sweet fruity flavor all the way through. Put them through a food chopper and add to the batter just before it goes into the pan to bake. They're a good addition to plain, spice or chocolate batters.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Caffeine-Containing Drinks Are Harmful Used in Excess

"I am an addict to black coffee," writes Mrs. C. C. "I drink 12 to 14 cups a day. Is this likely to be harmful?"

The active ingredient in coffee is a drug known as caffeine. A cup of strong coffee contains enough caffeine to produce a definite drug effect, though perhaps this is somewhat lessened by the fact that the caffeine is combined in coffee with some other substances.

Coffee, therefore, acts as a stimulant which increases temporarily mental and physical energy, and acts to some extent to relieve mental and muscular fatigue. Many people drink coffee also just for its comforting and relaxing effect.

Caffeine as a drug is a well-known brain stimulant. It is used sometimes to combat some of the harmful effects of acute poisoning with morphine or other depressing drugs. It stimulates breathing and is used by doctors for this purpose in certain cases of asthma and other disorders of breathing.

ACTS ON HEART

Caffeine acts also on the heart and the blood vessels. It tends to dilate some of the blood vessels so that more blood may flow through, and it is a direct heart stimulant leading toward maintaining the blood pressure or even raising it somewhat.

Another effect of caffeine is to stimulate the formation of urine. Caffeine and its chemical relatives have therefore been used for a long time to increase urinary flow when that was desirable because of the formation of certain kinds of dropsy or other conditions.

Likewise, ordinary doses of caffeine act directly on most of the muscles, causing them to contract more powerfully and to become tired less easily. These are the principal actions of the drug, caffeine, although it affects to a lesser degree many other functions of the body.

KEEP USE MODERATE

Coffee or other beverages containing caffeine usually produce no harm if consumption is reasonably moderate. Unfortunately, nervous people are the ones most likely to drink too much and it is them that injury from caffeine is particularly likely. Twelve or 14 cups a day is too much to be really desirable.

When susceptible people drink too much of some caffeine-containing beverage, they are likely to become excessively nervous, develop pounding of their hearts, headache, sleeplessness, tremblings, and digestive disturbances.

When such symptoms occur they are almost always caused by too large an intake of the active drug, caffeine. The symptoms can be quickly lessened by cutting down on the excessive intake. Mrs. C. C. should probably do this.

Boxing Group Approves of Commission

Support of the city's proposed boxing and wrestling commission was received at council meeting Tuesday from Vancouver Island Boxing Association.

Writing for the association, R. E. S. Chambers, secretary-treasurer, said the group was in a position "to be aware of the pitfalls and influence that certain types of professionalism have on the youth of the community."

Ald. Waldo Skillings moved and council agreed that the proposed commission cover all sports. A by-law calling for the commission was passed last year, but was never manned nor put into operation.

The matter was referred to council's executive committee.

Donations to Cancer Clinic Family Request

Members of the family of Leofric Grenville Temple, whose funeral was held today at McCall's Funeral Home, asked that no flowers be sent to the private service.

Instead, it was requested that donations might be made to the Victoria Cancer Clinic.

Mr. Temple, 56, died Sunday. With his wife, he moved to Victoria four years ago from Saskatoon.

Surviving are the widow, at 174 Olive; a daughter, Pamela; a son, Grenville; his mother, Mrs. Grace Temple, of Nanaimo, and a sister, Mrs. L. Pearsons, Vancouver.

By ROY THORSEN

Charles Godfrey Duffin, Portsmouth, Eng., brother of Victoria's well-known sportsman and boxing coach, Edmund Duffin, 314 Irving, has been decorated with the OBE by the Queen.

The Portsmouth Duffin, who in the early part of the Second World War received from the late King George the George Cross, highest award that can be won by a civilian in the British Commonwealth, received the Order of the British Empire for gallantry during a rescue diving operation recently. Award was included on Queen Elizabeth II's Coronation honors list for heroism.

A senior shipwright diver at Portsmouth Dockyard, Charles Duffin rescued another diver trapped under the bottom of HMS Aurora while examining launching gear.

"A diver named Gustar was firmly wedged between planks underneath the Aurora. Duffin rescued him by cutting away a 15x4-inch plank with a handsaw."

"He is a quiet sort of type. I've never been able to get the story from him as to how he won the George Cross," said brother Edmund. "He merely tells me this is his fifth decoration."

The Victoria Duffin came here from the Prairies to retire. He has a beautiful home on Irving. One of his hobbies is gardening. Mr. Duffin is an ardent fisherman, a strong supporter of the Queen Alexandra Solarium. He has been in the boxing game since his youth and has helped to develop many local youths for ring action. Mr. Duffin is in charge of the Victoria Fire Department Boxing Club.

Victorians Hurt In U.S. Accident

Badly injured in a traffic mishap in North Dakota, June 22, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Allen, 3200 Midland, are only in fair condition in Alexis Hospital, Bismark, N.D.

Their daughter, Miss Marie Allen, who visited her parents, says her father's back and all his ribs were fractured. He is paralyzed from the waist down. One of his lungs was punctured.

Mrs. Allen also suffered back injuries and will be in a body cast for six weeks. Miss Allen was taken to the hospital by Rev. Percy Wills, Victoria.

The Allen car careened off the road near Bowman and turned over several times.

Minor Typhoon Cause Of Death in Ontario

15,000 Feet of Forest Levelled as High Winds Tear Across Eastern Province

TORONTO (BUP) — Heavy thunderstorms hopped over Ontario last night, causing at least one death, levelled a forest and created a "minor typhoon."

Aldini Bertrand, 19, of Whitefish, was instantly killed when a 50-mile-an-hour wind toppled the diamond drill tripod on which he was working at Copper Cliff and dashed him to the rocks below.

The fierce winds in the Sudbury district also tore down street lamps and hydro poles, cutting off power for two hours, picked up a milk truck and tossed it in a ditch, and snapped off the top of a tree which hit a city draftsman and knocked him unconsoious.

A lightning swift twister struck at Port Bolster and levelled 15,000 square feet of forest in some 30 seconds.

In Scarborough township east of Toronto township police blamed a "minor typhoon" for blowing out windows of a service station and carrying four heavy wires across the street. Weather officials commented however that people were "tornado conscious" and said it was only another high wind.

A rash of minor traffic accidents were blamed on the heavy rains, which cut visibility and left highways slippery.

De Gasperi Faces Rugged Problem in Forming Govt.

ROME (UP)—Alcide de Gasperi today tackled the job of trying to form a new government that will keep Italy on the pro-Western course he has charted since the war.

The 72-year-old Gasperi, premier of the last seven governments, accepted the task reluctantly. He tried Sunday night to hand over the reins to someone else but the urgent appeal of president Luigi Einaudi and his own fears that the labors of the past years would be undone led him to change his mind.

Italy was in one of its worst political crisis since the war as de Gasperi began consultations with leaders of the parties he hopes will join him in a new coalition regime.

Observers rated his chances of forming such a government at no better than 50-50.

Saanich Farmers Welcome Change In Weather Outlook

The sudden change in weather overnight didn't bother Saanich Peninsula berry farmers. They were happy about it, in fact.

"It will help us," was the opinion of J. J. Young, manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association. "It was too hot for the pickers and the berries."

Growers of ever-sensitive cherries say that the rain was not heavy enough nor at a time when it could do much harm. The cherries are not ripe enough yet for the rain to split them.

Berry farmers report a plentiful supply of pickers now that school is out. They are looking for a large loganberry crop.

Four special buses and a regularly scheduled bus are transporting strawberry pickers to peninsula farms, where picking is now entirely for jam production.

Tenders for the operation of a fery service across Baynes Sound, between Buckley Bay on Vancouver Island and Denman Island, for a period of 10 years, now are being called by the British Columbia government.

The successful bidder will be asked to commence service November 1. Deadline for tenders is August 6.

EX-MOUNTIE STARTS ACTION AGAINST RCMP

VANCOUVER (CP)—Court action has been started here by John R. White, former acting corporal in the RCMP at Prince Rupert, in connection with his dismissal from the force.

A motion seeking to quash proceedings under the RCMP act which resulted in his demotion and dismissal was filed in supreme court Tuesday.

The application is scheduled for hearing July 20. It is based on an allegation that Supt. George J. Archer exceeded his jurisdiction under the act and was biased when he heard charges of "scandalous conduct" against White.

The charges against the former policeman concerned a 17-year-old girl. He is alleged to have given her liquor.

Quebec Election Act Testing Thursday

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's recently-amended Election Act, a subject of vigorous controversy in the last session of the legislature, will receive its first test Thursday in three by-elections.

Georges Lapalme, Liberal leader, who suffered personal defeat in last year's provincial election, will seek a seat in Montreal Outremont. The other two by-elections are in Portneuf, an agricultural and lumbering area near Quebec City, and Matapedia in Gaspe peninsula.

Liberals have been vociferous in their criticism of the Election Act changes, charging that the Union Nationale government is seeking to perpetuate itself in office. The government said the amendments were designed to remove cumbersome or unworkable features of the old act.

The Liberals objected to a new provision providing a single enumerator, appointed by the returning officer, for each polling subdivision. Formerly there were two enumerators, one named by the government party and one by the Opposition.

Another amendment provides that each candidate will have one instead of two agents in each poll, with the deputy returning officer appointed by the government and the poll clerk by the Opposition. The amendment provides further that if either fails to show up, his replacement will be appointed by the returning officer.

Formerly replacements were required to keep representation of both parties on an equal basis.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1953

AIRES (March 21 to April 19)—Today's accent is on your personal appearance, beauty treatments, general sprucing up, etc. Ability is present to contact an entertainment group able to help you further your ambitions.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—It is necessary to forget personal desires for fun and think in terms of your family, close ties. Get money matters organized. Then you can express your affection in more practical ways.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Get in touch with any public utility concerns, big public or private corporations in a position to make your daily living easier. Discuss your concerns frankly; let them aid you.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Much activity behind scenes with confidantes makes more income available now if you accept. Show your practical abilities. Work harder to make a real success.

LEO (July 22 to August 21)—Your mind is very active in seeking means for fulfilling your personal desires with a minimum amount of effort. This is an unusually good day for this. Forget pleasures and persevere.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22)—Today brings much activity of a public nature if you will get out of your little rut into the world events. This brings you more popularity from the public plus the esteem of powerful persons.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)—The urge to seek adventure in the unknown brings interesting information and means by which you can make life with loved ones more delightful. Be open-minded.

SCORPIO (October 23 to December 21)—Sit back and listen closely to what others have to say instead of injecting your own very good thoughts. These can stand added depth from those who are more expert.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—You have a chance now to tackle a multitude of odds and ends and get them quickly behind you for free time to make more efficient arrangements regarding material concerns.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Happy time is likely if you contact a younger associate who is overflowing with creative ideas and gives you the necessary lift to get more favors for loved ones. Have fun tonight; be happy.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Look for ways to have more beauty in your surroundings. It means careful planning, work and denial of some extravagant luxuries, but it's worth it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .
Thursday's child will need a great deal of encouragement. Compliments should be given even for very sensible things, as there is likely to be a lackadaisical attitude toward life and a too-easy acceptance of favors without any return. Encouragement offers the incentive that appeals to your youngster and makes an ambitious, energetic worker instead of an indifferent one. The best type of career is one connected with public commodities, especially in the selling field.

This is truly a real home. Clean, comfortable, and has all the attributes that make for gracious living. There is a living room with fireplace, delightful dining room, modern cabinette kitchen with tiled sink, etc., one good bedroom with double cupboards and four-piece tiled bathroom down. Upstairs by concealed stairway there are two good-sized bedrooms plus a toilet and hand basin. Halls, stairways, two bedrooms and dining room all have wall-to-wall carpets. House heated by a very expensive Delco-oil automatic furnace with an air-conditioner attached. New 40-gallon electric copper hot-water heating unit. A good extra room in basement. Drive-in garage. Garden in nice condition. PLUS a $250.00 TV antenna on the Duroid roof. Condition of this home is spotless. Unfortunate circumstances necessitate a fast sale. This HOME is worth $15,000, but an offer of $13,000 would probably take it. Good district. Close to school and buses. Some terms available. For appointment to inspect, contact J. M. Chesman. A N EXPENSIVE DISH OF ICE CREAM

83-Year-Old N.J. Woman Loses $18,000 Nest Egg

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—An 83-year-old spinster went out for a dish of ice cream Monday—it cost her $18,000.

Here, said police, is what happened to Nellie Drain:

Miss Drain left her apartment for some ice cream at a nearby soda fountain and passed the time of day with a woman sitting on the next stool until a third woman joined them.

The new arrival breathlessly told of finding a large sum of money and of giving it to her boss in a nearby office building for safe-keeping.

The woman offered to share the find with Miss Drain if she would put up money to show good faith.

That sounded fair to Miss Drain so, accompanied by one of her new acquaintances, she went to a New York bank, withdrew $18,000 savings and handed it over to her companion.

When they got back to Jersey City the woman said she had to meet her friend at the boss' office and complete the deal. The $18,000 went with her.

Miss Drain waited and waited and waited and then called police.

Garson Says Prosperity Highest Level

WINNIPEG (CP) — Justice Minister Garson said in a radio address Tuesday night that Canadian prosperity, now at its highest level in history, depends heavily on the continuance of the Liberal government's policies which have helped to produce it.

Mr. Garson said a change from a Liberal government to one led by Progressive Conservative Leader George Drew would be "a change from a powerful and stable government to a weak and unstable one.

"Today under Liberal government, Canadians are buying and selling abroad more in proportion to our population than any other nation in their history.

"Our production, employment and the national income have all expanded far beyond what anyone would have thought possible."

He said that under Liberal administration Canada's national income rose from $5,000,000,000 in 1939 to $24,000,000,000 last year.

Dealing with Mr. Drew's charges that the Liberal government had been "arrogant and indifferent to the needs of the Canadian people, Mr. Garson outlined the achievements of the last Parliament.

Among these were: tax reductions, including a reduction of an average of 11 per cent in personal income taxes, effective July 1; establishment of the Supreme Court of Canada as the final appeal court; appointment of a Canadian-born governor-general; establishment of the St. Lawrence Seaway authority to build and operate Canada's part of the project; and construction of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Ragni Jumps Chiefs for Semi-Pro Loop

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Wenatchee Chiefs have lost Jay Ragni, purchased two months ago for $2,500, to the Oregon semi-pro Lumber League, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Ragni played only two games with the Chiefs after coming to the Western International League club in April from Oakland. After pitching twice he was benched with an injured leg and went home to Portland to recuperate.

Wenatchee manager Frank Dasso said Ragni told him he would be back with the Chiefs to start the second half of the WIL season.

Now, however, he has notified the Chiefs he has taken a job in North Bend, Ore., where he will play twice a week in the Lumber League. Dasso said Ragni has been suspended.

Russian Chess Team To Compete in U.S.

LONDON (AP)—A formidable team of Russian chess masters—complete with a trainer—has left the Soviet capital for the United States Monday, Moscow radio reported.

World champion Mikhail Botvinnik heads the team invited to play in a tournament which begins in New York July 15. The Russians will meet a team which includes the two top players in the U.S.—Samuel Reshevsky and Reuben Fine.

U.S. Netters Prep For Davis Cup Test

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two members of the United States Davis Cup team worked out in blistering sunshine and 85-degree heat Tuesday as they prepared for the American-Japanese Davis Cup matches opening Thursday.

Captain Tony Trabert, 23, and Ham Richardson, 19, national inter-collegiate champion, unlimbered their game after a 14-hour flight from Cincinnati.

SPECULATION

Royal Rumor Will Reach House Floor

LONDON (UP) — A Labor member of Parliament prepared to carry to the floor of the House of Commons today the question of the rumored romance between Princess Margaret and divorced Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

The hushed rumors that the pretty sister of Queen Elizabeth II might be "impossibly" in love with the divorced father of two children grew stronger last week when the Air Ministry announced it was moving Townsend from Buckingham Palace to Belgium.

The British press since then has headlined every report connected with the Royal Air Force hero's transfer from the post of equerry-in-waiting to the Queen to that of air attache at the British embassy in Brussels.

Emrys Hughes, leftwing "Republican" Laborite representing the Scottish constituency of Ayrshire, planned to present the following question in Commons today to the Air Undersecretary:

"Who has been appointed the new air attache at Brussels and what are his duties?"

While the government's reply, and discussion of the subject were bound to be delicately worded, the move seemed certain to stir further speculation that Townsend's transfer was calculated to end talk of a Royal romance.

$28,817 Settlement Awarded Widow of Air Crash Victim

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Whittaker in Supreme Court Monday approved a settlement of $28,817 for the death of Joseph Eric Melanson, killed in a crash of a Queen Charlotte Airlines plane October 17, 1951, near Mt. Benson.

He was returning from Kitimat to Vancouver. There were no survivors of the crash.

The settlement was made on behalf of the plane's pilot, Douglas Duncan McQueen, whose estate was represented by Mrs. Robert Burell McQueen.

The money is payable to Mr. Melanson's widow, Mrs. Mona Melanson, who will receive $14,553. The balance is divided among her five children, ranging from four to 16.

The settlement will take the place of a pension which would have been payable by Workmen's Compensation Board.

Mrs. Melanson also received $69,000 insurance on the death of her husband.

Collapses From Heat, Dies in Freak Fire

SVENDBORG, Denmark (AP)—S. Longhi collapsed from the heat in his garden last week and his glasses, caught on a branch above him as he fell, focussed sun rays onto his shirt, setting it ablaze. Neighbors found him after all his clothes were in flames. He died in a hospital today.

OAK BAY GARDEN WATERING

Due to the dull weather in May and June we have had no water pressure problems. However, the hot weather now prevailing necessitates restrictions.

In an effort to cause the least inconvenience to home owners this summer, it has been decided to leave the matter of restrictions in garden watering up to the common sense of our ratepayers.

You are, therefore, forthwith, strongly requested to limit your watering to three days per week plus Sundays, preferably even-numbered houses watering on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and odd numbers, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

As fixed sprinkling systems are heavy users of water all at one time, it is most desirable that they should not be put into operation any day between the hours of 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. including Sundays.

If the above voluntary system is not observed compulsory regulations will again have to be put in force, to the inconvenience of many concerned.

A. S. G. MUSGRAVE,
Municipal Engineer.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grains showed a firm undertone at the close today on the Winnipeg grain exchange, reflecting the steady appearance of U.S. markets.

Some export demand came out in both barley and flax, with trade reports indicating small parcels of barley to the United Kingdom and undisclosed amounts of flax to Belgium.

American buying contributed to gains in rye prices. Oats received routine domestic support.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat included 2,800,000 bushels to the United Kingdom, 270,000 to Spain, 175,000 to Germany, 260,000 to Japan and 380,000 to India.

Some irregular changes were reported for prices of Class Two, WA and domestic wheat.

Investment Outlays Stay At High Level

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian businessmen plan to spend three per cent more on new construction, machinery and equipment during 1953 than they planned at the start of the year, the trade department said today.

The department's mid-year survey of private and public investment estimates the total program for 1953 at $5,564,000,000 compared with the first estimate of $5,421,000,000 made last winter.

The increase amounts to nine per cent over the 1952 rate of investment. Prices are holding relatively stable, the department said, and the nine per cent increase should almost entirely reflect volume rather than value.

Most of the increase recorded in the mid-year survey over the first estimate for 1953 is in the machinery and equipment category. Planned outlays for this purpose now amount to $2,085,000,000, an increase of five per cent over the first estimate, and six per cent above investments in machinery and equipment in 1952.

Construction expenditures, which were revised upward one per cent in the mid-year survey, will run about 10 per cent greater than last year, the department said.

"The present survey has largely reaffirmed the strength of capital spending as anticipated at the beginning of the year," the department added. "There appears to be every indication investment outlays will continue at high levels throughout 1953."

KITIMAT TO MONTREAL SHIP LINK

MONTREAL (CP)—Saguenay Terminals Ltd., Montreal, the shipping arm of Aluminum Co. of Canada, announced today it will inaugurate a fortnightly service from Montreal to Kitimat, B.C., and return.

The service starts August 14 with the sailing of the Ss. Sunharv from Montreal. It will be an extension of the line's inter-coastal run from Montreal to Vancouver and return via Halifax, Saint John, Kingston, Jamaica, the Canal Zone and American Pacific ports.

The initial cargo will consist of 30,000 short tons of raw materials and equipment for the new Alcan smelter at Kitimat.

STOCK EXCHANGE SUMMARIES

Uraniums, Oils Move Lower at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Prices faded slowly toward the close of today's dull stock market session, with uraniums, New Brunswick base metals and western oils seeking lower ground.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals gave an unimpressive showing as three out of four issues traded were down. Brilund led with a 36-cent loss.

In western oils Home Oil, Banff and Central Explorations widened their losses to as much as 25 cents. Base metals also traded into lower territory.

Firmness in papers, manufacturing companies and foods helped to steady industrials. Utilities improved late in the day with Gatineau and BC Electric making good fractional advances.

Golds drew little interest as seniors traded mixed while juniors and holding companies weakened.

Rails Best in N.Y. List

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads were in demand today in a stock market that showed a broad mixture of gains and losses. At the outside changes went to around a point either way.

Railroads gathered in the largest part of buying attention. Steels, aircrafts and some chemicals were depressed.

Canadian issues were mostly higher. Hiram Walker was up ½ and International Nickel ¼. Canadian Pacific was off ⅛. Dome Mines and Distillers Seagram were unchanged.

On the American stock exchange Giant Yellowknife fell ⅛ while Lake Shore and Royalite Oil remained unchanged.

Ups, Downs Balance at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market presented an even mixture of gains and losses during slow afternoon dealings today.

Bathurst A added a point at 37½ while other changes were limited to a narrow range.

Papers, beverages and miscellaneous industrials showed a strong undertone. Steels and utilities were down.

Senior metals, senior oils, banks and carriers hovered dead-centre.

Mines were lower in heavy trading. New Larder fell 16 cents.

Calvan and Canada Oil Lands shared the spotlight in a mixed western oil section. Calvan slipped 25 cents while Canada Oil Lands added 20.

White Pass & Yukon Profit $239,323

VANCOUVER (CP) — The White Pass and Yukon Corporation, Ltd., reports net profit of $239,323 for 1952.

White Pass, a holding company, has subsidiaries operating a 110-mile railroad, oil tankers, trucks and buses, and also is engaged in selling petroleum products.

Bond Market Firm

MONTREAL (CP)—Government of Canadas and provincial issues held steady today on Montreal bond markets. The corporate market was stronger. In convertibles, Canadian Breweries, CPR and Dominion Textile issues were up. Bell and Canada Oil Lands were better in the non-convertibles.

Vancouver Exchange Quiet, Few Changes

This forenoon's listless trading on Vancouver stock exchange produced little in the way of trend.

Among the mines Beaver Lodge was 1.02 bid at noon, eight cents below Tuesday's close. Bralorne also was bid under Tuesday's market, being marked at 3.90. Dorren held fast to the 21-cent level, and National Exploration was unchanged at 51.

In the oils, most bids were below Tuesday's prices but there weren't enough transactions to set a trend.

London Firm But Little Activity

LONDON (Reuters)—Generally firm conditions prevailed on the London stock exchange today but the volume of business remained light.

Government securities resumed mastership of the market with rises of up to 3/16 of a point.

Industrials continued to make quiet progress.

Oil shares remained firm. Canadian Eagle issues were prominent.

Mining markets were quiet.

Closing prices: Babcock & Wilcox 63s 6d Boots Pure Drug 20s 1½d, Canadian Pacific £4¾, Central Mining £1 13/32, Consolidated Goldfields 46s 6d Courtaulds 40s 10½d, Hudson's Bay Co. 44s 4½d Imperial Tobacco 52s 7½d, Metal Box 58s 3d, Mexican Eagle 2½s 4½d, Rand Mines 63s 9d.

Bonds: British 2½s Consols fell 11/16, British 3½s War Loans £81 3/16, British Fundings 4s 1960-1990 £100⅝.

Training for Backwoods Jobs

One-time teachers of the London area, these two new Canadians went to backwoods assignments during their first year in this country. Now they're working on courses at provincial Summer School here and thoroughly enjoying it. Mrs. Rosa Wells, left, and Mrs. Laura Lange are among 1,700 enrolled. "It's good to get back to civilization," they admit. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

LONG STEP FROM LONDON

Teachers Take Break From Backwoods Jobs

No matter which way you look at it, it's a mighty big jump from a modern kindergarten in London, Eng., to a one-room schoolhouse, eight miles from Smithers, B.C.

But that was the leap taken by Mrs. Laura Lange, who has just completed her "year in the bush" and is one of 1,700 teachers at summer school here.

She immigrated to Canada with her friend, Mrs. Rosa Wells, a widow, when "one day I just decided I wanted to get out of England."

Mrs. Wells, who was a teacher in a 1,000-pupil country secondary school in Dagenham, Essex, was coming to Canada to visit her sister in Smithers, so Mrs. Lange, who taught at a kindergarten at Shepherd's Bush, decided to come with her.

WAR SERVICE

Both were ATS girls during the war and became friends when they went to college afterwards.

Mrs. Wells found employment in the six-roomed Smithers school, but her friend was assigned the one-room, rural school eight miles away.

She had 15 pupils, ranging in age from six to 15 and ranging in grade from one to eight.

Attached to the schoolhouse were her living quarters — a kitchen and a bedroom. Illumination was by gas lamps. Heat was supplied by a pot-bellied stove. Water was fetched from a nearby creek. There was no telephone, no bathroom.

"It was life in the raw," Mrs. Lange contends.

"ISOLATION PAY"

In addition to her regular salary, though, there was an additional $10 a month "isolation pay."

The children arrived at school as early as 7.30. When the temperature dropped to 36 below zero, though, absenteeism was 100 per cent.

Worst part of being a rural school teacher, according to Mrs. Lange was being alone on a cold winter's night when the wind was howling.

"I often sat up in bed and shivered, and then got up and went into the schoolroom because I'd think someone was trying to get in the window."

SCARED INTO MARRIAGE

"That's why I got married," she laughed. "I was scared stiff."

Her husband is a German immigrant, a carpenter by trade.

Both Mrs. Lange and Mrs. Wells now regard British Columbia as their home, although they think they'll return to England in another year "just for a visit."

Freedom Within Commonwealth Malan Declares

CAPETOWN (AP) — Prime Minister Daniel Malan said Monday there was no need for South Africa to leave the Commnowealth to achieve greater freedom.

Malan told the South African parliament: "The Commonwealth gives us the greatest freedom we could wish for. On the grounds of achieving greater freedom for South Africa, no case could be made out for leaving the Commonwealth."

He was commenting on a motion by J. G. F. Strauss, leader of the Opposition, who had asked the House to approve the way in which the government has been co-operating with the rest of the Commonwealth.

This was Malan's first public statement in South Africa since his return from the Coronation and the Commonwealth conference in London.

After accepting the expression of approval, Malan said that whatever anyone might think about the future of South Africa, with or without the Crown, the present position is that the Crown is part of the constitution.

PERFORMED DUTY

He added that it had been his duty as prime minister to attend the Coronation and the Prime Ministers' Conference. It was not unknown to other members of that conference, he added, that he is a republican nationalist. Notwithstanding this, he said, he was shown the greatest friendliness by every one of them.

Strauss' motion asked the House to assert that continued co-operation as a member of the Commonwealth was essential for the security, welfare, capital development and prosperity of the union. The vote will come later.

Reds Propose Tough Terms

Communists Ready to Negotiate Final Truce Details; South Koreans Protest

SEOUL (AP) — The Communists said today they are ready to negotiate the final details of a Korean armistice, even though South Korea objects violently.

There was still no indication that stubborn President Syngman Rhee would accept a truce which fails to guarantee unification of his war-battered nation.

The Communist reply to Gen. Mark Clark's June 29 proposal to sign an armistice now was delivered by liaison officers in a five-minute meeting at Panmunjom.

The letter laid down what appeared to be some tough conditions for Communist acceptance of a truce negotiated in two years of hard bargaining. But observers said the Reds might waive some of these when the truce talks resume.

The Reds said the United Nations command must:

1. "Take effective steps" to assure South Korean compliance with armistice terms;

2. Recover 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners set free on orders of President Rhee last month;

3. "Shoulder the absolute responsibility" for seeing that none of the 8,000 anti-Red prisoners remaining in Allied stockades escape.

The Communist letter said "our side agrees that the delegations of both sides meet at an appointed time to discuss the question of implementation of the armistice agreement and the various preparations prior to the signing of the armistice agreement.

"The date for the meeting will be discussed and decided by the senior delegates of both sides through liaison officers."

Informed sources said the next move probably will be an Allied request for a liaison session to fix the date for a meeting of the full truce delegations.

TALKS STALLED

Thousands of South Koreans paraded through the streets of Seoul crying for the UN command to fight on until Korea is unified.

President Eisenhower's truce envoy, assistant secretary of state Walter Robertson, met with Rhee again Wednesday in an effort to win his support of a truce. The talks are reported to be stalled on Rhee's insistence that the United States agree to resume the war unless a post-armistice political conference progresses toward unification of Korea within 90 days.

Eisenhower Assures Rhee Of Intentions

Seeks Peaceful Reunification

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today assured Korean President Syngman Rhee that the United States is looking forward to the peaceful reunification of Korea and intends to work for it after an armistice.

The president at his weekly news conference, however, did not endorse Rhee's demands that the war be resumed if a political conference fails to unify Korea after three months of deliberation.

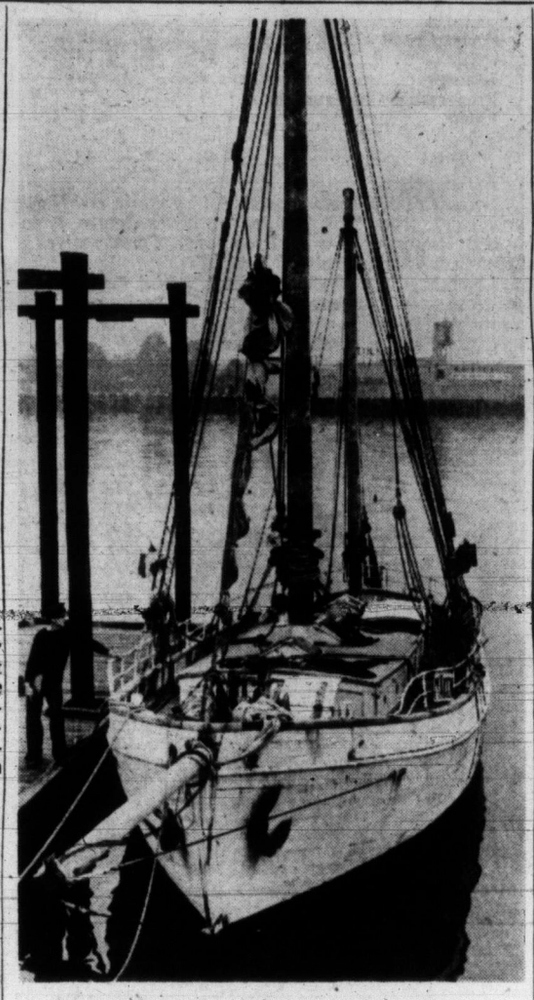
The president said the question of trying to reunify Korea by warfare is something that would have to be weighed against the future of the United Nations. He said the hopes of all are high for the success of the world organization.

The president said he hoped the efforts to negotiate with Rhee would lead to a settlement in Korea. But the president said he could not deny that there are troubles. He said no one can tell exactly how the situation will come out.

At the outset of the news conference, Mr. Eisenhower noted that the Communists had accepted the United Nation's suggestion that peace talks be resumed despite the Allies' troubles with Rhee. He said he wanted to make it clear, in that connection, that everybody in the United States understands the aspirations of Rhee and have very warm spots in their hearts for what South Korea has done to help fight the war.

He said we must never lose sight of the fact that the Korean incident is an ideological struggle as well as one of arms.

We look forward to the peaceful reunification of Korea and intend to work for it, the president declared.



Sailed Here From Norway

Forty-three-year-old ketch Maken sailed into Inner Harbor Tuesday after voyage from Norway via the Panama Canal. She is owned and skippered by 28-year-old Vancouver man, Michael Fitz-James (on dock), who acquired he ras a derelict in Norway, made the hazardous crossing safely, despite age and condition of the Scottish-built ship. Maken was 80 days from Panama to San Francisco. (See picture, story page 15. Times photo by Halkett.)

NO JOKE, SAYS POLICE

Three-Toed Monster Haunts Ontario Town

NEW HAMBURG, Ont. (CP). — A slimy three-toed "monster" with a hideous tail crawls the streets of this southwestern Ontario town by night and hides by day, Police Chief George Thomas said today. The 2,200 residents are in a dither.

The chief says he won't rest until he kills "this beast". He already has taken a couple of shots at it. Deep marks in the ground, made by the three toes on two legs, have been seen clearly in the morning. The heavy tail has also left an imprint.

"This is no joke," the chief said.

"In fact it will be a tragedy if anyone is attacked by it."

He said he caught a glimpse of the creature Saturday night as it was half-running, half-crawling back to its lair somewhere near the Nith River.

"I fired at it with my revolver, but it was too dark to tell whether I nicked it or not. I'll be waiting every night from now on."

Chief Thomas figures the animal stands about 3 feet and weighs about 50 pounds.

Dr. F. A. Urquhart, director of zoology at Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum, said the creature might be either an American bittern or a great blue heron, both large water birds.

He said both birds have three toes and are common in Canada. However, if it turned out to be any strange form of reptile, he said the museum would "be delighted to have it."

U.S. Troops Survive Buckets of Grenades

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—American infantrymen stormed back to the crest of Porkchop Hill today in a heroic drive to regain ground lost under withering Communist artillery fire.

Troops of the U.S. Seventh Division had surrendered the vital outposts to the Communists after Red artillery hit the crest with 20 rounds of artillery per second for hours at a time.

Chinese troops took command of the hill by throwing "buckets of grenades" at the defending Americans.

After a day of see-saw fighting, exhausted Americans reported at 5 p.m. (4 a.m., EDT they had regained the crest and eastern slopes.

Latest reports said the Americans were fighting to root out Reds who had dug in on the western approaches to Porkchop.

"We are expanding our hold on the hill," a frontline officer said. "We have 20 per cent more territory than we did this morning."

He said the situation was "very encouraging."

United Press correspondent Leroy Hansen reported from the front that an American negro soldier's eyes had been blown out in the furious fighting for Porkchop before the hill was lost.

The attacking Communist force of 1,500 Chinese had battled the Americans for 36 hours before finally pushing them back to the southeastern slopes of the vital outpost on the western front.

BLACK WATCH LEAVE KOREA

IN KOREA (Reuters)—Wailing bagpipes today skirled a lament for Scots who have died in Korea as kilted pipers of the 1st battalion of the Black Watch played their farewell to the Commonwealth division and Korea.

This famous battalion of the ladies from hell" is bound for Kenya to deal with Mau Mau uprisings.

At a formal ceremony today the battalion handed over to their successors, the Royal Scots, before entraining for Pusan at the southeast tip of Korea, where they will embark for Kenya.

Texan Leads Canadian Open; Stranahan Hot in U.K. Golf

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., putting like a fiend, shot a sizzling five-under-par 66 today to take the lead in the first round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

With the field then about half finished at that time, Bolt's 66 broke a three-way tie at 67 shared by Wally Ulrich of St. Paul; Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., and Leo Biagetti of Baltimore.

Henry Martell of Edmonton, new Canadian PGA champion, had a first-round score of par 71, going over on the first nine. The gallery swarming over from the third green just as Henry was driving off the fourth tee appeared to upset him. His ball barely caught the green at the par-three fourth and he three-putted.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, twice winner of the British Amateur golf title, fired a brilliant two-under-par 70 today to clinch the first-round lead in the British Open golf championship.

With almost all of the "name" golfers finished and with more than three-quarters of the field in, Stranahan's 37-33 for the par 72, 7,200-yard championship course appeared good for a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole tournament.

Ben Hogan, U.S. Open titlist who is bidding for his first British Open cron, wound up one over par with 36-37—73.

St. Laurent Hits Out at Communism

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent today opened his western election campaign with an attack on Communism, branding it as a "godless, reactionary and destructive doctrine."

Bue he warned against raising false hopes of armed support for those behind the Iron Curtain who seek to throw off their chains and become free.

"A policy of liberation that would lead to a general atomic war could be no good to anybody," he said in a speech prepared for delivery before the fourth All-Canada Congress of the Ukrainian Canadian Committee.

In Canada as in other countries Communism is "subversive and a threat to security," said Mr. St. Laurent. It had to be "watched and countered."

Mr. St. Laurent's reference to communism appeared to be a reply to criticism by George Drew of government policy. The Progressive Conservative leader has said that if his party is elected, he will make Communist activity in Canada illegal by amendment to the Criminal Code.

Mr. St. Laurent advocated no outright ban but rather a policy of vigilance bolstered by a strong economy.

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

Tito Urges West Be Fair to Russia

Yugoslav Premier Sees New Red Policies 'Real'

By HELEN FISHER
(Copyright 1953 by United Press)

BRDO, Yugoslavia (UP) — Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito said today he believes Russia is in the midst of a real change of policy, and he urged western powers to seize this opportunity to reach a "realistic" international settlement.

He believed the Russian changes were the result of past mistakes and weaknesses.

Tito warned that President Syngman Rhee of South Korea "is going too far" in opposing an armistice. "If they (the West) let him go on, it could have serious consequences," Tito said.

Tito cautioned that the West should not demand too much of a change in Russia or expect the Kremlin to give up all its basic aims lest it reverse its recent policy and try to emerge as "the champion of oppressed nations."

Marshal Tito talked for 70 minutes with this correspondent at his summer chateau in the mountains, discusing with great frankness Yugoslavia's relationships with the Soviet Union and the United States, and analyzing the changes taking place behind the Iron Curtain.

He said that it was the remarkable policy shift in Hungary which finally convinced him that the Soviet bloc is in the throes of a real change.

Kremlin Changes Not Yet Ended

(Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's No. 1 Communist was removed from his post of premier last Saturday. His successor, Imre Nagy, astonished the Hungarian parliament and people by denouncing Rakosi's policies and promising sweeping reforms including a swing toward private enterprise and greater rewards for agriculture.)

"I do not believe the Soviet Union will ever renounce its basic aims," Tito said.

"But I do believe that right now they are in a phase of great accumulation of pressures resulting from the weaknesses and mistakes of the past, and that the leaders of the Soviet Union must make great changes. These changes are real and not just tactical manoeuvering, and they are not yet ended.

"But further development depends not only on the Soviet Union but also on what is done by the western countries.

"I would advise them to take advantage of this phase to settle important international problems such as Germany and Austria.

"But they should not ask any 100 per cent change within the Soviet Union or ask the Russians to give up all their basic aims.

"Some people in the west have an unrealistic idea that now is the time to achieve something extraordinary in this line. But this would cause such a reaction that the situation would become worse than ever. It would encourage the Soviet Union to reverse itself and again try to emerge as the champion of oppressed nations."

Tito received this correspondent in the spacious salon of his simple, thick-walled 18th century chateua where he usually spends the summer months. With a polka dot tie he looked tanned and rested, much younger than his 61 years.

Interpreter Aids Interview

The interview was carried on mostly through an interpreter.

The president made these points:

1—The drastic government changes in East Germany and Hungary "give us great satisfaction" because they prove Yugoslavia was right in breaking with the Soviet Union five years ago. Similar changes are to be expected in other satellites.

2—It was Hungary that convinced him the Russians were serious. "Throwing out a whole set of the Soviet Union's most loyal agents and replacing them by a new set who are not known at all, changing the entire state and economic administration of a country—this is a decision not easy to reach which could only be motivated by very basic considerations. And it will certainly go further."

3—Yugoslavia will welcome better relations with Russia but will never return to her old dependent relationship. "We want to be independent of all countries in every respect."

4. There are deep ideological differences between Yugoslavia and Russia which probably will never be overcome. But normal relations are possible. "We have ideological differences with America too, but nevertheless we have not only normal but friendly relations with America."

5. Yugoslavia will take no further action on Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Roman Catholic prelate now confined to his home village of Krasic. "Stepinac wants to be a martyr," Tito said. "He refused medical examination and refused to go to a seaside resort for his health. If he died there, they would say it was our fault just the same. Stepinac is only a pawn in the Vatican's world chess game and will be only a pawn as long as he lives.

6 In Korea Syngman Rhee "is going too far and if they (the West) let him go on, it could have serious consequences. The whole political capital which the United Nations gained by achieving the successive phases of an armistice in Korea might be lost. I see that Rhee, at the urging of Chiang Kai-shek, wants to release the Chinese prisoners, too. If the American government does not prevent this, it may have far-reaching consequences. The whole world would be thrown into turmoil and it would cast a dark shadow on American policy in Korea."

'QUIET' RETURN SOUGHT OF CORONATION STOOL

LONDON (BUP)—Scotland Yard, disclosing the disappearance of a crimson stool used in the Coronation ceremony at Westminster Abbey, appealed for its "quiet" return today to avoid a clamor like that touched off by the removal of the Stone of Scone on Christmas Day, 1950.

The stool, on which the Duke of Edinburgh knelt to pay homage to Queen Elizabeth, was missed one hour after the Coronation ceremony was concluded. The yard kept it quiet until now.

ELECTION AFTERMATH

By-Elections For Ministers

Bennett Pledges New Seats For Rolston, Gunderson

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today two by-elections will be held after the fall session of the B.C. Legislature to seat his defeated cabinet ministers.

Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson were defeated in the provincial election.

The fall session is expected to open about September 15.

"The ministers will be seated in the House in the regular constitutional way," he said.

Two of the 28 elected Social Crediters will have to resign to open seats for the cabinet ministers.

Mr. Bennett, however, did not say in what seats he planned by-elections.

He explained the situation is "similar to last fall" when he named Robert Bonner attorney-general and Mr. Gunderson finance minister, then seated them with by-elections when two private members resigned. Both had been appointed to cabinet posts after the 1952 election.

ST. LAURENT WILL SPEAK AT ROYAL

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent makes his second visit to Victoria in less than a year, on Friday.

Details of his visit haven't been released yet, but the Prime Minister's main appearance will be at the Royal Theatre Friday night at 8.15 when he will make his major address.

The Liberal leader is now in Winnipeg, heading west, on his election tour. His last appearance here was September 5, 1952.

He will be accompanied to Victoria by John Pickersgill, newly appointed secretary of state, and Ralph Campney, associate defense minister.

Cabinet Shuffle Looms

BY GORDON FORBES
Times Legislative Reporter

Possibility of a shuffle in Premier W. A. C. Bennett's cabinet loomed today as an aftermath of the defeat of Education Minister Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

Mrs. Rolston was defeated by Liberal Leader Arthur Laing in Vancouver-Point Grey Monday afternoon as count was completed in the province's second election in a year, 29 days after the June 9 election day.

Here are the final standings: Social Credit 28; CCF 14; Liberal 4; Progressive Conservative 1, and Labor 1.

See Page 2 for election summary and Point Grey progress count.

Mr. Laing defeated Mrs. Rolston on the fifth count 22,730 to 21,354. The Liberal leader trailed through the preceding counts but was elected on the distribution of the second choices of CCF voters.

Premier Bennett has asked both defeated ministers to carry on in his cabinet. Mrs. Rolston has accepted but Mr. Gunderson is undecided.

If either minister was unsuccessful in a by-election, the premier would be faced with the necessity of re-aligning his cabinet and bringing in new blood.

Defeat of Mr. Gunderson, or a decision by him to quit politics, would likely see Premier Bennett carry on as finance minister and eventually appoint an outsider to the post.

None of the Socred MLA's-elect have the necessary qualifications which the premier wants for a man to fill the finance minister's job, although the name of Alex Mathews, Vancouver Centre successful candidate, has been mentioned as a possible successor.

But defeat of Mrs. Rolston might see one of the existing teachers in the cabinet, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black or Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers shifted to the post.

This would necessitate further changes in the cabinet, and appointment of another minister—possibly among the Vancouver Island members-elect. The Island has had no cabinet minister.

One Socred MLA-elect who could fill Mrs. Rolston's post is Ray Williston, Prince George, a former school inspector.

Education Minister Rolston charged today that "false propaganda" regarding the Rolston Formula on school financing had contributed to her defeat, but her views were immediately rejected by Mr. Laing.

Mr. Laing coutered that if the election was fought over the formula, Point Grey candidate George Miller would never have been defeated since he was the strongest critic of the plan.

Forest Closure Ordered

An unexpected storm which interrupted Victoria's hot spell Tuesday night failed to reach Up-Island points, and the B.C. Forest Service has ordered closure of the Sayward Forest in the Campbell River area.

High fire hazard conditions are responsible. However, travel through the forest will be allowed under special permit from local forest officers. Car movement on certain forest access roads will be banned completely.

Sayward Forest lies north of Lower Campbell Lake, includes the watershed of the Salmon River, extends west to Discovery Passage and north to Johnson Strait.

The general fire hazard elsewhere on the island decreased overnight. A four-acre Malahat blaze was brought under control Tuesday, as well as a spot fire in the same vicinity. Small fires at Sooke and Shawnigan Lake district also were extinguished.

Surprised residents of Victoria watched a spectacular display of sheet and forked lightning over the Olympic range Tuesday night, followed by one-fifth inch of rain.

Weatherman Bill Mackie freely admitted the storm caught him "with my guard down."

It sneaked up the coast of Oregon, and broke without warning," he said. "However, I think our warm spell is only temporarily interrupted."

Temperatures were down this morning, registering an official 53 at 9.30 a.m., rising to 63 at 12.30 p.m. and 64 at 1 p.m.

Forecast is for cloudy skies, with the sun breaking through in the afternoon, today and Thursday.

Window Cleaner Hurt in Fall

Harry A. Mobey, 27, window cleaner for Hughes Window Cleaning, suffered face and leg injuries at 1.30 p.m. today when he fell an estimated 20 feet to Broad Street from the old Colonist building.

He was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by police ambulance, where his condition was described as good. He lives at 1075 Finlayson Avenue.

2 Recounts Likely Says Laing

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Liberals will seek a judicial recount in at least one riding, Skeena, and perhaps in a second, North Vancouver.

Liberal Leader Art Laing said today that the battle isn't over yet to seat Liberals in the June 9 election.

Shantz Not Quitting for Gunderson

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Social Credit MLA-elect Hugh Shantz declared Tuesday night that he wouldn't vacate his North Okanagan seat to make way for a by-election for defeated Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

In answer to suggestions that he resign, he said he would give up his seat only if asked to be do so by the electorate of the riding.

Climber Sought on Mt. Garibaldi

VANCOUVER (CP) — Search started today for John Holmes, 41, of Vancouver, who is reported missing in the Mount Garibaldi country.

Holmes, an experienced climber and member of the B.C. Mountaineering Club, started a trek into the mountain June 29. He was due to return to Vancouver last Friday.

SEOUL (AP) — The Communists said today they are ready to negotiate the final details of a Korean armistice, even though South Korea objects violently.

There was still no indication that stubborn President Syngman Rhee would accept a truce which fails to guarantee unification of his war-battered nation.

The Communist reply to Gen. Mark Clark's June 29 proposal to sign an armistice now was delivered by liaison officers in a five-minute meeting at Panmunjom.

The letter laid down what appeared to be some tough conditions for Communist acceptance of a truce negotiated in two years of hard bargaining. But observers said the Reds might waive some of these when the truce talks resume.

The Reds said the United Nations command must:

1. "Take effective steps" to assure South Korean compliance with armistice terms;

2. Recover 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners set free on orders of President Rhee last month;

3. "Shoulder the absolute responsibility" for seeing that none of the 8,000 anti-Red prisoners remaining in Allied stockades escape.

The Communist letter said "our side agrees that the delegations of both sides meet at an appointed time to discuss the question of implementation of the armistice agreement and the various preparations prior to the signing of the armistice agreement.

"The date for the meeting will be discussed and decided by the senior delegates of both sides through liaison officers."

Informed sources said the next move probably will be an Allied request for a liaison session to fix the date for a meeting of the full truce delegations.

Thousands of South Koreans paraded through the streets of Seoul crying for the UN command to fight on until Korea is unified.

President Eisenhower's truce envoy, assistant secretary of state Walter Robertson, met with Rhee again Wednesday in an effort to win his support of a truce. The talks are reported to be stalled on Rhee's insistence that the United States agree to resume the war unless a post-armistice political conference progresses toward unification of Korea within 90 days.

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

RED POLICY CHANGES REAL, DECLARES TITO

Yugoslav Leader Urges Co-Operation By West

By HELEN FISHER
(Copyright 1953 by United Press)

BRDO, Yugoslavia (UP) — Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito said today he believes Russia is in the midst of a real change of policy, and he urged western powers to seize this opportunity to reach a "realistic" international settlement.

He believed the Russian changes were the result of past mistakes and weaknesses.

Tito warned that President Syngman Rhee of South Korea "is going too far" in opposing an armistice. "If they (the West) let him go on, it could have serious consequences," Tito said.

Tito cautioned that the West should not demand too much of a change in Russia or expect the Kremlin to give up all its basic aims lest it reverse its recent policy and try to emerge as "the champion of oppressed nations."

Marshal Tito talked for 70 minutes with this correspondent at his summer chateau in the mountains, discussing with great frankness Yugoslavia's relationships with the Soviet Union and the United States, and analyzing the changes taking place behind the Iron Curtain.

He said that it was the remarkable policy shift in Hungary which finally convinced him that the Soviet bloc is in the throes of a real change.

Kremlin Changes Not Yet Ended

(Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's No. 1 Communist, was removed from his post of premier last Saturday. His successor, Imre Nagy, astonished the Hungarian parliament and people by denouncing Rakosi's policies and promising sweeping reforms including a swing toward private enterprise and greater rewards for agriculture.)

"I do not believe the Soviet Union will ever renounce its basic aims," Tito said.

"But I do believe that right now they are in a phase of great accumulation of pressures resulting from the weaknesses and mistakes of the past, and that the leaders of the Soviet Union must make great changes. These changes are real and not just tactical manoeuvering, and they are not yet ended.

"But further development depends not only on the Soviet Union but also on what is done by the western countries.

"I would advise them to take advantage of this phase to settle important international problems such as Germany and Austria.

"But they should not ask any 100 per cent change within the Soviet Union or ask the Russians to give up all their basic aims.

"Some people in the west have an unrealistic idea that now is the time to achieve something extraordinary in this line. But this would cause such a reaction that the situation would become worse than ever. It would encourage the Soviet Union to reverse itself and again try to emerge as the champion of oppressed nations."

Tito received this correspondent in the spacious salon of his simple, thick-walled 18th century chateau where he usually spends the summer months. With a polka dot tie he looked tanned and rested, much younger than his 61 years.

Interpreter Aids Interview

The interview was carried on mostly through an interpreter.

The president made these points:

1—The drastic government changes in East Germany and Hungary "give us great satisfaction" because they prove Yugoslavia was right in breaking with the Soviet Union five years ago. Similar changes are to be expected in other satellites.

2—It was Hungary that convinced him the Russians were serious. "Throwing out a whole set of the Soviet Union's most loyal agents and replacing them by a new set who are not known at all, changing the entire state and economic administration of a country—this is a decision not easy to reach which could only be motivated by very basic considerations. And it will certainly go further."

3—Yugoslavia will welcome better relations with Russia but will never return to her old dependent relationship. "We want to be independent of all countries in every respect."

4. There are deep ideological differences between Yugoslavia and Russia which probably will never be overcome. But normal relations are possible. "We have ideological differences with America too, but nevertheless we have not only normal but friendly relations with America."

5. Yugoslavia will take no further action on Aloysius Cardinal Stepinac, Roman Catholic prelate now confined to his home village of Krasic. "Stepinac wants to be a martyr," Tito said. "He refused medical examination and refused to go to a seaside resort for his health. If he died there, they would say it was our fault just the same. Stepinac is only a pawn in the Vatican's world chess game and will be only a pawn as long as he lives.

Oct. 12 B.C. Holiday

Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 12, has been declared a public holiday by the provincial cabinet.

It will be a holiday under the Factories Act.

ELECTION AFTERMATH

By-Elections For Ministers

Bennett Pledges New Seats For Rolston, Gunderson

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett said today two by-elections will be held after the fall session of the B.C. Legislature to seat his defeated cabinet ministers.

Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson were defeated in the provincial election.

The fall session is expected to open about September 15.

"The ministers will be seated in the House in the regular constitutional way," he said.

Two of the 28 elected Social Crediters will have to resign to open seats for the cabinet ministers.

Mr. Bennett, however, did not say in what seats he planned by-elections.

He explained the situation is "similar to last fall" when he named Robert Bonner attorney-general and Mr. Gunderson finance minister, then seated them with by-elections when two private members resigned. Both had been appointed to cabinet posts after the 1952 election.

ST. LAURENT WILL SPEAK AT ROYAL

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent makes his second visit to Victoria in less than a year, on Friday.

Details of his visit haven't been released yet, but the Prime Minister's main appearance will be at the Royal Theatre Friday night at 8.15 when he will make his major address.

The Liberal leader is now in Winnipeg, heading west, on his election tour. His last appearance here was September 5, 1952.

He will be accompanied to Victoria by John Pickersgill, newly appointed secretary of state, and Ralph Campney, associate defense minister.

Cabinet Shuffle Looms

BY GORDON FORBES
Times Legislative Reporter

Possibility of a shuffle in Premier W. A. C. Bennett's cabinet loomed today as an aftermath of the defeat of Education Minister Tilly Rolston and Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

Mrs. Rolston was defeated by Liberal Leader Arthur Laing in Vancouver-Point Grey Monday afternoon as counting was completed in the province's second election in a year, 29 days after the June 9 election day.

Here are the final standings: Social Credit 28; CCF 14; Liberal 4; Progressive Conservative 1, and Labor 1.

See Page 2 for election summary and Point Grey progress count.

Mr. Laing defeated Mrs. Rolston on the fifth count 22,730 to 21,354. The Liberal leader trailed through the preceding counts but was elected on the distribution of the second choices of CCF voters.

Premier Bennett has asked both defeated ministers to carry on in his cabinet. Mrs. Rolston has accepted but Mr. Gunderson is undecided.

If either minister was unsuccessful in a by-election, the premier would be faced with the necessity of re-aligning his cabinet and bringing in new blood.

Defeat of Mr. Gunderson, or a decision by him to quit politics, would likely see Premier Bennett carry on as finance minister and eventually appoint an outsider to the post.

None of the Socred MLA's-elect have the necessary qualifications which the premier wants for a man to fill the finance minister's job, although the name of Alex Mathews, Vancouver Centre successful candidate, has been mentioned as a possible successor.

But defeat of Mrs. Rolston might see one of the existing teachers in the cabinet, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black or Lands and Forests Minister Robert Sommers, shifted to the post.

This would necessitate further changes in the cabinet, and appointment of another minister—possibly among the Vancouver Island members-elect. The Island has had no cabinet minister.

One Socred MLA-elect who could fill Mrs. Rolston's post is Ray Williston, Prince George, a former school inspector.

Education Minister Rolston charged today that "false propaganda" regarding the Rolston Formula on school financing had contributed to her defeat, but her views were immediately rejected by Mr. Laing.

Mr. Laing coutered that if the election was fought over the formula, Point Grey candidate George Miller would never have been defeated since he was the strongest critic of the plan.

Sailed Here From Norway

Forty-three-year-old ketch Maken sailed into Inner Harbor Tuesday after voyage from Norway via the Panama Canal. She is owned and skippered by 28-year-old Vancouver man, Michael Fitz-James (on dock), who acquired her as a derelict in Norway, made the hazardous crossing safely, despite age and condition of the Scottish-built ship. Maken was 80 days from Panama to San Francisco. (See picture, story page 15. Times photo by Halkett.)

Texan Leads Canadian Open; Stranahan Hot in U.K. Golf

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., putting like a fiend, shot a sizzling five-under-par 66 today to take the lead in the first round of the Canadian Open golf championship.

With the field then about half finished at that time, Bolt's 66 broke a three-way tie at 67 shared by Wally Ulrich of St. Paul; Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., and Leo Biagetti of Baltimore.

Henry Martell of Edmonton, new Canadian PGA champion, had a first-round score of par 71, going over on the first nine.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, twice winner of the British Amateur golf title, fired a brilliant two-under-par 70 today to clinch the first-round lead in the British Open golf championship.

With almost all of the "name" golfers finished and with more than three-quarters of the field in, Stranahan's 37-33 for the par 72, 7,200-yard championship course appeared good for a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole tournament.

Ben Hogan, U.S. Open titlist who is bidding for his first British Open cron, wound up one over par with 36-37—73.

Forest Closure Ordered

An unexpected storm which interrupted Victoria's hot spell Tuesday night failed to reach Up-Island points, and the B.C. Forest Service has ordered closure of the Sayward Forest in the Campbell River area.

High fire hazard conditions are responsible. However, travel through the forest will be allowed under special permit from local forest officers. Car movement on certain forest access roads will be banned completely.

Sayward Forest lies north of Lower Campbell Lake, includes the watershed of the Salmon River, extends west to Discovery Passage and north to Johnson Strait.

The general fire hazard elsewhere on the island decreased overnight. A four-acre Malahat blaze was brought under control Tuesday, as well as a spot fire in the same vicinity. Small fires at Sooke and Shawnigan Lake district also were extinguished.

Surprised residents of Victoria watched a spectacular display of sheet and forked lightning over the Olympic range Tuesday night, followed by one-fifth inch of rain.

Weatherman Bill Mackie freely admitted the storm caught him "with my guard down."

It sneaked up the coast of Oregon, and broke without warning," he said. "However, I think our warm spell is only temporarily interrupted."

Temperatures were down this morning, registering an official 53 at 9.30 a.m., rising to 63 at 12.30 p.m. and 64 at 1 p.m.

Forecast is for cloudy skies, with the sun breaking through in the afternoon, today and Thursday.
